LEWIS BROWNE SPEECHES BANNED

F. D. R. Predicts Balanced Budget In 1939

OPPOSES CUT IN TAXES FOR FISCAL YEAR

Business Gains Outlined In Annual Message To Congress Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—President Roosevelt informed congress in his budget message today that he expected to balance the budget and begin reducing the national debt in the fiscal year 1939.

He presented to congress a 1938 fiscal year budget which he said balanced conditionally except for statutory debt retirement—meaning that if his conditions are met the gross deficit for the fiscal year beginning July 1 would be more than $401,515,000 compared with $2,652,553,774 in the current fiscal year and $4,873,841,642 in the 1936 fiscal year which ended last June 30.

Full text of President Roosevelt's budget message to Congress will be found on page 8.

The president foresaw little if any borrowing to finance government expenses in the next fiscal year. His program would virtually freeze the public debt at $35,026,000,000 on June 30, 1937, and begin to reduce it one year later.

But Mr. Roosevelt warned the nation that conditional budget balance in the next fiscal year and complete balance in the following

MOVE TO END
COAST STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—(UP)—A new concerted drive for peace in the Pacific coast maritime strike today produced heartening results, with ship owners offering one union a compromise proposal and discussing terms with another union along "very constructive" lines.

The employers proposed a peace plan to the Cooks' and Stewards' association, one of the seven striking unions involved in the 70-day walkout. The offer would give the culinary workers an eight hour day in every 12 hours on freighters and a nine hour day in every 13 hours on passenger vessels.

Definite progress was reported in a conference between the shipowners' association and the "Masters, Mates" and Pilots' association, Lyn Fox, assistant to Thomas G. Plant, chairman of the shipowners' committee, said "everyone was pretty much in accord" on all points of dispute.

Plant said the preferential hiring issue had been discussed generally. E. B. O'Grady, chief spokesman for the deck officers, said the issue had not been discussed.

Peace progress was reported on another front also, between the American Radio Telegraphists and the shipowners.

The Marine Engineers' Beneficial association has completed a tentative accord with the Shipowners' Association of the Pacific, operating offshore steam schooner, it was learned.

WAGE INCREASES
FOR RAIL WORKERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—(UP)—More than 200 employees of the Western Pacific, Sacramento Northern, and Tidewater Southern railways will receive retroactive wage increases under a decision of a federal arbitration board, it was announced today.

The employees recently won demands for increased pay but held, and the board concurred, that the increases should be made effective as of the date when their original demands were made.

The arbitration committee which settled the issue consisted of Frank P. Douglas, of Oklahoma City, the neutral member; P. O. Peterson, San Mateo, representing employees, and R. F. Ray, representing the railways.

UNIVERSITY HEAD OUSTED

Right, Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, who was ousted last night by action of the board of regents, and left Harold M. Wilkie, head of one of eight who voted to dismiss Frank on charges of mismanagement. Frank's supporters claimed it was at the will of Governor La Follette.

University
Board Ousts
Glenn Frank

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 8.—(UP)—The LaFollette-dominated board of regents today studied a list of men whom it may name to succeed Glenn Frank, famed liberal educator, as president of the University of Wisconsin.

Four Considered

The list, guarded carefully by members of the board which dismissed Frank on mismanagement charges, was known to include three members of the university staff, Dean Lloyd K. Garrison of the law school, Dean Edwin B. Fred of the graduate school, and John M. Gaus, of the political science department.

The fourth name was reported variously as Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, and Robert Morris Lovett, retired professor of the same institution.

George C. Sellery, white-haired dean of the university's largest college, letters and science, meantime stepped in as acting president in an atmosphere embittered by charges and denials of political meddling and threats of a student strike.

Student Strike Looms

A student protest against Frank's dismissal appeared to lack only a leader to grow into a strike.

As Frank prepared to issue a final statement denouncing this "anti-American and anti-educational procedure," Gov. Philip F. La Follette called a press conference to explain the "situation."

La Follette was drawn into the matter despite persistent denials that he prompted the dismissal. He appointed the eight regents whose majority vote last night after a two-day hearing on mismanagement charges passed a resolution, providing against renewal of Frank's contract when it expires July 1, and giving him a leave of absence effective today. He was accused by Frank himself of conferring before each regents' meeting with regents Harold M. Wilkie and Clough Gates, whom he appointed to the board and who led the movement for Frank's dismissal.

CABINET HOLDS
WAR DISCUSSION

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—The British cabinet held an emergency session today in the midst of growing European tension over Spain, based on the question of German and Italian military aid and the alleged German penetration of Spanish Morocco.

France Aroused

The latter question has aroused France, fearful that if Germany gets a foothold in Morocco, France will be confronted in the Mediterranean by a powerful Fascist neighbor, with attendant disturbance of the delicate balance of power in the inland sea.

It was reported during the cabinet meeting that Britain and France may try to obtain from Germany a promise to respect the integrity of Spanish Morocco and not attempt to make a deal with the rebels whereby it might become a new German colony.

The cabinet discussed the Italian and German replies to the Franco-British suggestion that the sending of "volunteer" recruits to Spain be halted.

Adheres To Demand

A foreign office spokesman announced Britain adheres to its demand that measures to halt the flow of recruits shall have priority over all other forms of intervention, such as financial aid.

CO-ED DIES

CRASH KILLS
COLLEGE GIRL

Betty Ross Bryant, 18-year-old Santa Ana Junior college sophomore met death in Los Angeles county about 1 a. m. today, as a Ford sedan driven by James R. Bryant, 40, office manager for the Anacosta Wire & Cable company, Orange, collided with the rear of a truck and two trailers belonging to the Southern California Freight lines, on Norwalk boulevard, near Imperial highway.

According to report of Sergeant A. G. Hoffman of Norwalk substation of the Los Angeles sheriff's office, Betty was killed instantly. According to preliminary investigation, Philip E. Burke, 30, 1917 South Dacotah street, Los Angeles, truck driver, and his swamped, Richard Zindell, 19, of 3629 East 54th street, Maywood, were driving along Norwalk boulevard, southerly, when a fuse burned out and they were left in total darkness. According to their statement, Zindell hurried around to the rear of the trailers to protect oncoming traffic, but was too late.

Evidently seeing the trailer at the last moment before striking it, Bryant swerved his car, but struck

GIRL'S MUTILATED
BODY DISCOVERED

PEIPING, Jan. 8.—(UP)—The mutilated body of a 17-year-old British girl was identified tentatively today as Pamela Werner, daughter of a retired veteran of the British consular service in China.

Identification was made by the discovery of a stocking and one shoe, found with the body in a ditch near the Tartar city inside the walls of Peiping.

However, the girl's other clothing and a bicycle which Pamela was riding when she disappeared yesterday were missing.

The father, Edward Theodore Werner, had been a member of the British consular service for many years.

NEW STRIKE
CALLED FOR AUTO PLANT

Attempt To Break Deadlock Between Corporation And Workers' Union

DETROIT, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Automobile Workers of America called a "sit-down" strike today in General Motors' big Cadillac plant in an attempt to break a deadlock between the union and the $1,500,000 corporation.

Their action came at a time when Gov. Frank Murphy, aided by federal conciliators, prepared to resume conferences with both sides.

Confers With Knudson

First, Murphy conferred with William S. Knudson, executive vice president of General Motors, and planned to see union leaders later.

Fifty-one hundred men are employed in the Cadillac plant and when they struck they brought the total number of General Motors employees out of work because of strikes and shutdowns to 62,403. By midnight the number will have grown to 77,529 if General Motors goes through with its announcement that the Chevrolet engine factory at Flint and the Bay City carburetor plant will be closed for lack of materials.

Body Plant To Close

General Motors officials said it would be only a short time until the Fleetwood body factory also would be forced to close. That plant manufactures bodies for Cadillac, and employs 1700.

Murphy, entering his second day as mediator, was optimistic that he would get Knudson and Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, together at the same conference table. No comment on the possibility of direct negotiations came from General Motors' officials, but strike leaders were pessimistic.

"I do not consider we are any nearer a solution than ever," Martin said. "We have issued no ultimatum, but we are determined not to sell the workers' birthright for a mess of pottage."

ARMS EMBARGO
LAW IS SIGNED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today signed the amendment to the neutrality law which sets up an embargo on shipment of American arms and munitions to war-torn Spain.

The president's signature enacted the legislation into law and precluded the possibility of completing an impending deal for $9,000,000 worth of airplanes and war materials for Spain.

The measure was enacted by congress as its first measure upon the urgent plea of the president that the step be taken to prevent possibility of this country becoming involved in the Spanish conflict.

Spanish Ambassador Felix Gordon Ordaz, who raced here by airplane from Mexico City to close a deal for planes, went shopping for personal effects this morning instead of doing business with the American airplane shipper, Richard L. Dineley.

PROPOSE NEW PENSION LAW

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 8.—(UP)—Radical liberalization of California's old age pension act, including a reduction in the minimum age from 65 to 60, was proposed today in a bill introduced by Assemblyman Ellis E. Patterson, King City.

The bill proposes the removal of all attachments against the property of persons on the old age pension rolls, elimination of property qualifications and the necessity of taking a pauper's oath before becoming eligible to state aid under the old age security act.

New Westover Bills

A bill was introduced by Sen. Harry C. Westover, Santa Ana, which would permit counties to either post or print delinquent tax notices, the object being to allow counties to escape the cost of legal printing.

New measures which were sent to the printer preparatory to committee and legislative action later in the session included a variety of proposals certain to cause prolonged debate.

They included:

Abolition of the death penalty, a favorite old topic for legislative argument.

Seek Repeal of Law

Repeal of the three-day "gin marriage" law, defeated two years ago after extended clashes on the floor.

Reduction of the sales tax rate from 3 to 2 1/2 per cent, the original rate of the tax before it was raised by the 1935 legislature. This proposal, in line with demands for lower taxes, conflicted with the administration's hope that the state's revenues would be left untouched this year.

Legalization of slot machines and assessment of a tax of $35 per machine, including "pin" games, to increase the state's revenue.

Seek Food Exemption

Exemption of all food, including meals sold in restaurants, and drugs from the retail sales tax.

Extending the unemployment reserves act to all employers, rather than exempting those with less than 25 employees. This would add many thousands of employers and employees to the list which now affects 17,500 employers and their workers.

SENATE GETS RFC,
CURRENCY BILLS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Sen. Carter Glass, D., Va., today introduced in the senate three bills designed to extend the life of the RFC, the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund, the gold devaluation act, and the government's authority to issue currency against federal reserve credit.

NEW FURORE
AROUSED BY ACTION HERE

Director Of Orange County
Public Forum Charges
Veiled Threats

Contract of Lewis Browne, author, lecturer and faculty member at University of California at Los Angeles, to fill three speaking engagements for the adult education department was cancelled today on written instruction from Frank Henderson, superintendent of schools.

Browne was scheduled to speak here on the nights of January 25, February 1 and February 8. The lectures, under sponsorship of the adult education department, were to have been delivered in the auditorium of the Frances Willard junior high school.

Furore Created

Cancellation of the engagements has created a furore of excitement in the city, with certain members of the Santa Ana school board, who would make a statement, denying responsibility for the cancellation and Henderson ill in a hospital in Long Beach.

Mrs. Golden Weston, head of the adult education department of the schools, refused to make any statement other than that she had received written instructions from Henderson yesterday to cancel the Browne series of talks and had complied with her instructions.

Homer Chaney, director of the Orange County Public forum, sponsored by the federal government,

CHILD LABOR
ACTION SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—President Roosevelt appealed today to the governors and governors-elect of 19 states to make ratification of the child labor amendment to the Constitution a major item on their 1937 legislative programs.

Mr. Roosevelt sounded his appeal in letters which directed attention to the fact that approval by 12 more states would place in the Constitution the amendment which empowers congress to limit, regulate and prohibit of persons under 18. Twenty-four of the necessary 36 states already have ratified the change.

Encouraging Development

"I am sure that you will agree with me," Mr. Roosevelt wrote, "that one of the most encouraging developments of the past few years is the general agreement that has been reached that child labor should be permanently abolished."

"Outstanding gains were made under the N.R.A. codes which have been maintained in many establishments through the voluntary co-operation of employers."

"However, it is clearly indicated that child labor, especially in low paid unskilled types of work, is increasing. I am convinced the nation-wide minimum standards are necessary and that a way should be found promptly to crystallize in legal safeguards public opinion in behalf of the elimination of child labor."

ORDER HOME FLEET TO MEDITERRANEAN

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—The British home fleet has received orders to sail for the Mediterranean for "combined maneuvers" with the Mediterranean fleet, which will put 105 British fighting ships within reach of the Spanish war zone.

It was described as a routine increase, but with the government increasing its anxiety over the Spanish situation, officials' avowals that the procedure was a normal one did not impress foreign naval experts.

They said that the order might be unintentional but that it was "an opportune demonstration"—one that, wittingly or not, will be a gigantic picture of royal British naval strength unfolded before the eyes of Germany and Italy.

Beginning January 13, 47 warships of the home fleet will leave in rapid succession for Gibraltar, joining 53 British warships already in the Mediterranean.

the trailer with his rear right door. Bryant and his wife, Alice, who resided at 315 South Orange avenue, Orange, with their daughter, were severely shaken up but not otherwise injured, according to reports from Artesia hospital. Mrs. W. J. Johnson, 68, the dead girl's grandmother, suffered broken left arm, and a fifth person in the car, Mrs. Maude Smith, 44, suffered broken ribs and wrenched ankle.

Betty's parents were at home today, recovering from shock. The family came to Orange in 1933 from Great Falls, Montana, and Betty at once entered Orange Union High school, where she graduated in 1935.

Entering Santa Ana Junior college at the beginning of the 1935-36 term, Betty, who was born April 16, 1918, signed up for the two-year secretarial practice course in which she was to be graduated in June. Betty belonged to the Spinsters, was a member of the annual staff, and engaged in baseball, basketball and hockey activities.

Inquest will be conducted at Arnold's funeral home, Artesia, Monday at 1:30 p. m. Officer Hoffman declared. Funeral arrangements are being made today at Gilgoly's funeral chapel, Orange, where the body will be taken, it was announced.

CENTER OF QUAKE IN EASTERN TIBET

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Kew observatory today said the epicenter of a terrific earthquake recorded yesterday had been established as in eastern Tibet.

Reports from Bombay and other cities adjacent to the zone substantiated that the powerful quake felt yesterday and continuing today were in the Tibet region.

It was recalled that it took several weeks for news of a great earthquake in Tibet in 1934 to filter through Asia.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Shanghai observatory recorded a severe earthquake today. It was estimated to center in the uninhabited mountains west of Szechuen province. No word of casualties was received here.

REPORTS THEFT OF HIS AUTO IN LONG BEACH

Coming to Santa Ana from Long Beach about 2:30 a. m. today, a taxicab driver, A. J. Rickhaus, 530 Chestnut street, Long Beach, and a Santa Ana passenger in the cab, Norbert Gagnon, 1228 North Broadway, were so puzzled over settlement of the fare they went to police headquarters for help.

The reason, Gagnon had nothing to offer the cab driver but a $100 traveler's check. Police admitted they couldn't give much assistance toward cashing the check but advised the two proceed to Gagnon's home and obtain the money. They did. Gagnon reported his car and purse were stolen from him in Long Beach. After Long Beach officers were called on to cooperate, Sergeant Urquhart of Long Beach, reported back that the Gagnon car had been located, on Ocean avenue, near Locust street, Long Beach. Officer Charles Neer notified Gagnon of the find and Gagnon said he would once more go to Long Beach, to get the car.

G-MEN FAIL TO NAB KIDNAPER

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 8.—(UP)—G-men apparently had failed to "break" the Charles Mattson kidnapping case today.

Harold Nathan, assistant director of the F.B.I., would not comment on a mysterious trip of four automobile loads of agents early today, but indicated nothing had been gained.

"I think it would be safe for you fellows to go to bed," Nathan told newspapermen. "However, I won't be responsible if something should happen five minutes later."

Nathan would not say where the posse went or whether it had returned.

Aberdeen, 80 miles southwest of Tacoma on Grays Harbor, was believed the destination of the group, openly active in the kidnapping for the first time since the 10-year-old boy was abducted 12 days ago.

Nathan was unshaven, indicating he had been called from bed in a hurry to direct his men's work.

Hope was higher than at any time in recent days for developments in the case.

LEWIS BROWNE F. D. R. OPPOSES CUT IN TAXES

was not so reluctant. He informed The Register today that Col. M. B. Wellington, Santa Ana attorney and Americanization committeeman for the Santa Ana post of the American Legion, had made veiled threats against the forum and Chaney in connection with the Browne engagement.

Called On Telephone

According to Chaney, Colonel Wellington called him on the telephone Wednesday and said that he understood that the forum was sponsoring the Browne lectures here. Chaney informed him that while the forum was not sponsoring the engagements, it was co-operating with the adult education department to the extent of assisting with arrangements and giving up the three forum programs scheduled for the nights on which Browne was scheduled to speak here.

According to Chaney, he was told by Wellington, "You will do no such thing. I am going to blow you and the forum clear to—on this thing."

He also informed Chaney that he was being supported in his action by the Masonic and Elks lodges and Catholic organizations of the city, instead of the American Legion post. Efforts to contact Wellington failed as he was out of the city, according to his secretary.

Last year Lewis Browne delivered a series of lectures in this city under sponsorship of the adult education department and aroused a storm of protest from the American Legion, with the charges being hurled that Browne was a Communist and should not be allowed to lecture here. In spite of the protests, the board of education permitted the lectures to continue and were forced to move them from the Willard auditorium to the auditorium of the First Methodist church when the school auditorium could not accommodate the crowds that flocked to the lectures.

George Wells, chairman of the board of education, today declined to make a statement relative to the cancellation of Browne's contract, saying that he "would rather not say anything." Dr. Margaret Baker, member of the board, also declined to make a statement.

Contract Denied

Rolla Hays, vice president of the board, and M. B. Youel, board member declared that they "did not know the contract had been cancelled." They also declared that the board had never entered into a contract with Browne and said the list of speakers booked for this season under sponsorship of the Adult Education department had never been submitted for approval of the board.

Hays and Youel authorized the statement that "so long as we are spending the money and facing criticism of the taxpayers when we make a mistake we feel that items for which money is expended should be submitted to the board for decision. If we approve such expenditures then we are ready to face our critics. The list of speakers for the adult education department for this year was never submitted to the board. The board has not entered into a contract with Browne, or any other speaker, has not cancelled any contract and is not responsible for its cancellation if it has been cancelled."

Hays and Youel declared that they did not know Browne had been engaged for the adult education program until after the public forum meeting last Monday night when the engagement was announced in the Forum News and several people called them on the telephone to protest.

To Discuss Matter

While members of the board declined to make official statements, several of them indicated that unofficial criticism of the booking of Browne to talk here might have been made and that the matter probably would have come up for discussion at the next board meeting. None would deny that some member of the board might possibly have contacted Henderson in the hospital at Long Beach and advised cancellation of the series.

Several members of the board indicated that, if unofficial action had been taken, it probably had been based on the protest of last year. It was indicated that they would not approve of bringing speakers to Santa Ana, under board sponsorship, who already had been the subject of protest. "We are criticised enough as it is," one member said, "without deliberately bringing to Santa Ana a speaker who already has been objected to by individuals and organizations."

FRANCO TO GET 2 LOYALIST SHIPS

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—(UP)—The government announced today it would dispose of two Spanish loyalist ships seized by German warships in reprisal for the Spanish seizure of the German freighter, Palos.

A communique said the ultimatum demanding release of part of the Palos' cargo and one Spanish passenger had expired without compliance by the Spanish government with its terms.

Reliable private quarters considered it probable that the two Spanish ships would be turned over to the rebel government of Gen. Francisco Franco, which the Germans consider the only legal government in Spain. The Franco government then would make a financial accounting.

year depended on industry's co-operation in hiring more persons for relief rolls.

All estimates were dependent upon continued economic improvement.

If his estimates prove to be correct the New Deal increase in the national debt from July 1, 1933, would aggregate $12,487,327,440—the net excess of expenditures over revenue for that period.

The president estimates federal revenue in the next fiscal year would increase by $1,475,446,378 because of better business and higher taxes.

The president withheld from congress estimates of recovery and relief needs in the 1938 fiscal year. He reported there would be a treasury surplus of $1,135,607,942. But that probably will be consumed in recovery and relief appropriations to be requested later.

Mr. Roosevelt did not propose new taxes but he opposed the reduction of any kind. He recommended:

1. Making the Civilian Conservation corps permanent.

2. Continuance of three-cent first class postage.

3. Continuance of so-called nuisance or manufacturer's excise taxes (gasoline, lubricating oil, brewer's wort, matches, automobiles, etc.) Total revenue, $452,580,000.

4. Maintenance of current rates on taxes which otherwise would be reduced next June (stamp taxes on bonds, stock transfers, future delivery produce sales and admissions.)

5. Subjecting to budget bureau supervision expenditures of all emergency agencies continued in the next fiscal year.

Withholding precise estimates of 1938 fiscal year recovery and relief needs from congress and the public, Mr. Roosevelt expressed the hope they would not exceed $1,553,154,000. Recovery and relief will cost $2,816,157,100 in the current fiscal year. He said if business continued to improve, if recovery and relief needs remained within the figure mentioned, there would be no net deficit in the 1938 fiscal year but merely a technical gross deficit of approximately $401,515,000 representing ment.

The budget message reported greatly improved business. It forecast record breaking government revenue of $7,293,697,197 in the next fiscal year and reduced federal expenditures compared with the current period. This budget launched the nation on a battleship building program and asked for $20,000,000 to begin building two of these war vessels, the first such to be projected since the 1921 Washington arms conference. They will cost $50,000,000 each. The budget raises peace time national defense estimates for purely military purposes to a new high, $980,763,000 of which the navy will get almost $600,000,000.

The president considers this 1938 budget to be balanced in the non-technical sense of the term, subject to the conditions he imposed upon business, continued recovery and congress. Technical balance would require actual reduction of the public debt. This he projects for the fiscal year 1939.

The budget message revealed

Mr. Roosevelt planned sharply to curtail relief expenditures from the 1936-37 levels. But he found available funds insufficient for the remainder of the current 1937 fiscal year and asked congress to appropriate $790,000,000 immediately, of which $650,000,000 is to be expended for recovery and relief between February 1 and June 30, when the 1937 fiscal year ends. The aggregate of additional or deficiency appropriations for which need developed since the adjournment of congress last June and for which Mr. Roosevelt asked immediate appropriation is approximately $910,000,000 of which part is destined for the civilian conservation corps.

A WORD OF COMFORT

We have been told that "Men pray because they can not help it. They are seeking and finding a great companion, without whom life would be a weak, disappointing and futile experience."

When it seems impossible to put your prayers into words, do not be discouraged. Lift your trembling heart close to His, that He may soothe, comfort and strengthen you. Do not restrain your impulse to seek from Him balm for your wounds. No one else can help you much, but He will if you draw near in trustful yearning.

S. W. STANLEY MADE COMMITTEE CHIEF

S. W. Stanley, of Tustin, who is treasurer of the Orange County Farm Bureau, Inc., today was named as chairman of a committee to make recommendations on plans and costs for preparing the farm bureau's new building at 253 South Main street, Orange, for occupation early this spring.

The appointment was made by Dian R. Gardner, president of the organization, and the group will be in charge of arranging facilities of the new headquarters as well as supervising the construction of an assembly room.

Members of Stanley's committee are H. H. Gardner, Mrs. A. F. Schroeder, A. D. Smiley and John Osterman.

MT. VERNON, O. (UP)—Wayne county assistant prosecutor, Henry Critchfield, was fined $10 and costs when he was found guilty of passing a school bus stopped on the highway.

WATER PROBLEM HEADS FARM BUREAU'S PROGRAM FOR 1937

Taking a firm stand that the water supply problems of Orange county are the most important questions before the organization, and reaffirming its position in favor of the consolidation of certain functions of county government, the Orange County Farm Bureau, Inc., was off to a powerful start today on its 1937 program.

Following lengthy discussions at an all-day meeting of the bureau's board of directors here yesterday, the group voted unanimously to concentrate its energy on a clear-cut program that was described as being "sufficiently small to assure carrying every one of its phases to success before the end of this year."

Dian R. Gardner, president of the bureau, presided at the session which was featured by the fact that the bureau as an association went out of existence with yesterday's meeting, and now is a corporation, with Gardner's selection heading the list.

R. D. Flaherty, secretary of the group, said this morning that a discussion of labor problems of growers and farmers also was in the foreground of the day's program.

"We planned to continue a study of all our labor needs," he said, "and laid down a rule whereby actions of this organization from time to time on labor problems may be constructive, fair and reasonable both to the producer and the worker. The interests of the latter are inseparable in the successful operation of the farm enterprise."

After checking recent developments in the water supply question, the bureau adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, that we hereby reaffirm our position that the solution of the water problems now confronting Orange county are most important; all committees and departments of this corporation are hereby requested to cooperate with our water committee to the end that all possible progress be achieved during 1937 in the balancing of the water use with supply and that steps to secure and maintain equitable regulation of such use and supply be accomplished."

This matter was divided into five separate parts, as follows: Underground water regulation; flood control and conservation of storm waters; metropolitan water district; sewage reclamation; and proper allocation of the waters of the Santa Ana river.

The board voted to continue its study of special districts of the county governmental divisions, the duties of constables and justice courts "and over-lapping functions within existing departments and offices in the various districts."

"This will be done," the officers said, "in order to increase the governmental efficiency and to attempt to reduce these costs to make available moneys to help pay the cost which is imminent in the balancing and regulating of our water supply."

This question will be in the hands of the tax committee.

In addition to Gardner, other officers of the corporation are L. P. Halderman, Anaheim, vice president; H. J. Hinrichs, Orange, second vice president; S. W. Stanley, Tustin, treasurer; R. J. McFadden, Placentia, state delegate; R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary, and C. J. Marks, of Tustin, field secretary.

JAYSEE JOURNALISTS HOLD FDR RE-ELECTION AND KING'S ABDICATION AS BEST STORIES

Love or politics—what makes the best news story? Journalism students of Santa Ana Junior college were unable to decide that problem today as they cast 36 votes each for the abdication of King Edward VIII and the re-election of President Franklin D. Roosevelt in making their selections of the 10 best news stories of 1936. The news survey is conducted at the college each year by the department of journalism.

Second place in the news poll was given the Spanish revolution, closely followed by Italy's conquest of Ethiopia, and the maritime strike.

Remaining choices for the best news stories of the past 12 months were rated as follows in the order named: death of King George V, electrocution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the eastern flood disaster, 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin, Orange county citrus strike, and the payment of the soldier's bonus.

Aside from the citrus strike, newspaper subjects. A total of 58 different stories were considered by the college journalists in making their selections. Those who participated in naming the selections included: Robert Long, Frances Was, Donn Hart, Jack Gardner, Eleanor Brady, Margaret Clinton, Doyle Jay, Erna Swarts, Harold Pottorf, Jack Backer, Ginger Keeler, Norma Tuffrey, Frances Bowman, Marvin Hinton, Bob Prescott, Harvey Baker.

KNX WILL GIVE FROST WARNING EACH EVENING

Assurance of adequate time for continuation of the nightly temperature forecasts by Floyd Young over radio station KNX has been received from the Columbia Broadcasting system, according to an announcement from the California Fruit Growers exchange.

The frost warning will be given at the usual time of 8 p. m. every night except Sunday, when a flash announcement will be made at that hour with complete report to follow at 9:45 p. m. For the six week nights a full five minute period is available with additional time if emergency demands it. This arrangement is now definite.

for the balance of the month of January at least.

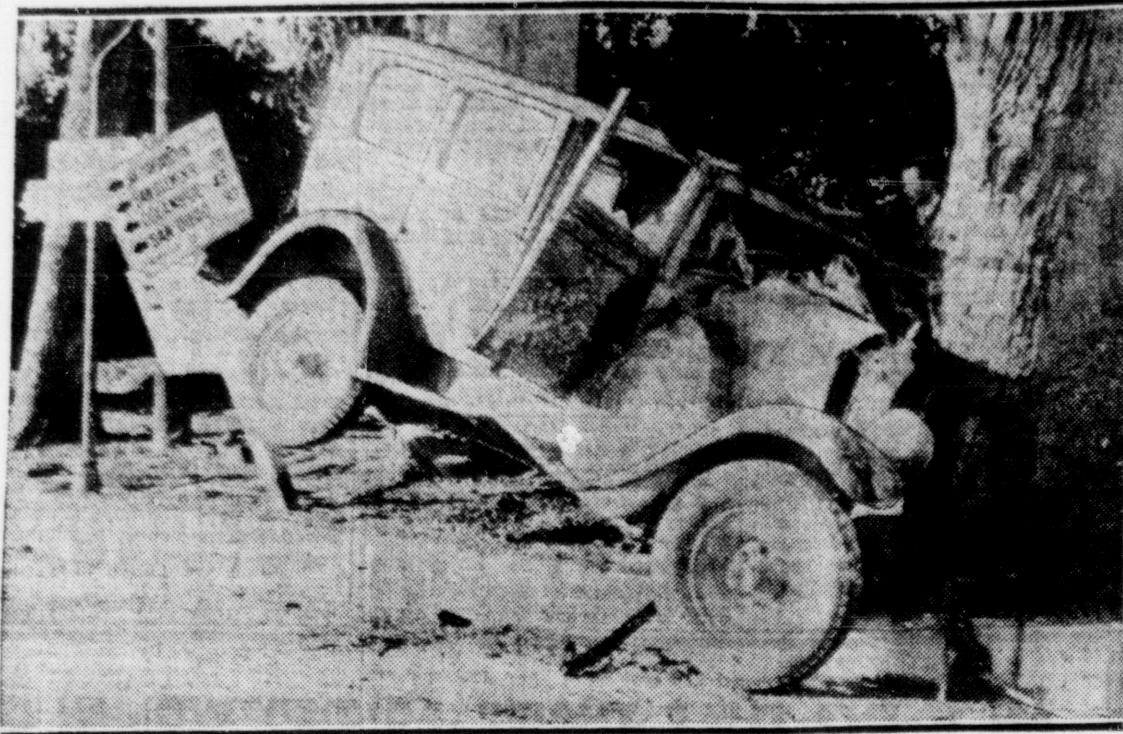

With the switch of all Columbia programs to KNX a week ago there was some difficulty in arranging for sufficient time at 8 o'clock because of the continuous sponsored chain programs at that time of night, which is as early as the weather forecast can be prepared by Mr. Young.

"Citrus growers should know that Columbia and KNX officials fully appreciate the public service and economic value of this nightly broadcast to the citrus industry and to the state," said Paul S. Armstrong, general manager of the exchange. "They have done everything within their power to cooperate with us and with Mr. Young to give this important service the time on the air required and to keep the same hour to which growers have become accustomed."

"Columbia and KNX are doing this at considerable out-of-pocket cost to themselves and I am sure that their efforts are genuinely appreciated by everyone in the industry," Armstrong said.

OCCUPANTS NOW IN HOSPITAL

Suspended between two tall eucalyptus trees and a guide post, this heavy car nearly carried three C. C. C. men to their deaths early yesterday on the 101 highway near Tustin. The car had apparently been towed and was catapulted into the trees. Its three occupants, William Imblum, 47; Thomas Capps, 44, and Louis Sweeney, 42, all sustained serious injuries.

THREE INJURED WHEN TOWED AUTO CRASHES INTO BIG TREE

A note of mystery surrounded a freak accident on the 101 highway near Tustin yesterday, for officers were at a loss for an explanation of the series of events that led to the crash.

The heavy car in which three C. C. C. men were riding was pinned between two trees and a sign post, where it had been catapulted in its mad dash around the corner. From all indications, the car had been towed at a high rate of speed, as a tow rope, attached to the front bumper lay stretched along the curb.

Highway Patrol Officer Dan Adams was at a loss to explain just why the rope had not snapped back over the vehicle, unless it had been burst while another vehicle had been pulling the heavy machine.

Where did the other vehicle go? That is another question that adds to the mysterious accident. An investigation also revealed that the occupants of the wrecked car had been in Tustin earlier the previous night to obtain gasoline, claiming they had run out of fuel. The red car was recovered from the Tustin garage man who accommodated the distressed motorist the previous night.

Louis Sweeney, 42, the youngest of the three injured in the crash, was unable to give officers a detailed account following the crash. He was removed to the Santa Ana Valley hospital along with William Imblum, 47, and Thomas Capps, 44.

However, the car got tangled up with the trees and the sign post may be a mystery, but the demolished vehicle, which burst into flames after the sudden stop, served as a grim reminder of too much speed—a tragedy at the crossroads.

"How will they get it out of there," a spectator asked. "Well, they ought to leave it right there like it is," the officer said, "maybe it would remind some of us what can happen when..."

STATE LIQUOR HEAD CLEARS UP MOOT QUESTION

For the purpose of clarifying any misgivings regarding the authority of local enforcement officers, including district attorneys and city prosecutors, in connection with liquor law enforcement, State Liquor Administrator George M. Stout today submitted a report to H. E. Mackenzie, head of the liquor enforcement unit of the state board of equalization, in Orange county.

"This report is of much importance," said Mackenzie, "but I do want to say that we have nothing but praise for Orange county's law enforcement agencies—they have given us 100 per cent cooperation at all times. They have just as much authority as we, in this matter of liquor enforcement."

Chief Stout's statement: "The question 'Are local authorities empowered to enforce the alcoholic beverage control act?' is repeatedly being asked. The answer is emphatically, 'Yes.' According to rules and regulations, 'violations of any provision of the act, any order, rule or regulation made under or pursuant to the provisions of the act by the board, or the terms or conditions of any license issued under the act, are punishable as misdemeanors or felonies in the cities or counties where such violations occur. Local police, peace officers and enforcement officials have full power and authority to prosecute violators of this law to the same extent and in the same manner as others committing misdemeanors within their respective jurisdictions. The board will cooperate with local officials to the fullest extent in securing enforcement of the law.'

"Also, 'Local authorities have full power to make arrests for violations of the alcoholic beverage control act. It is the duty of any sheriff, constable or police officer to proceed under this act as he would against those violating any other criminal law on the statute books. To talk of 'return of enforcement' to the local authorities is idle. This power has never been taken away from them."

Also, "District attorneys and city prosecutors have similar responsibilities. The state board of equalization has not usurped and has no desire to usurp any of the func-

Since locating here, he has been unable to accept all the requests, but has spoken nearly every week before some teacher or civic group. Dr. Martin gave the opening address before the Institute of World Affairs at its annual meeting at Mission Inn in Riverside.

Aside from his nation-wide reputation as a speaker, he is an author who is widely quoted. Some of his best known books are The Meaning of a Liberal Education, Liberty, and Farewell to Revolution. Dr. Martin is presented on the forum program through the cooperation of the adult education department of the city schools. Homer Chaney director of the forums, will preside. The meeting opens at 7:30 and is open to the public.

G. Mitchell yesterday and pleaded guilty to the overcoat theft. The check charge is still pending.

WHEN WE STOP GREASY INDIGESTION WE FEEL JUST FINE

Our stomach can't digest grease. Neither can our bowels. Only our pancreatic juice, working with our bile juice, can digest grease. When we get bad taste, headache and that nasty gummy feeling which comes from greasy indigestion, take 1 Carter's Little Liver Pills before each meal and 1 after. Carter's Little Liver Pills bring a large flow of our pancreatic juice and bile juice into our bowels. The large flow of these juices digests the grease we have eaten. Then we burst into life and into our work like a joyous skyrocket. But if you want this glorious relief from greasy indigestion, ask your druggist for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and stubbornly refuse to buy anything else. 25c.

Improvement Of Pope Continues

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Pope Pius, during a restful night, maintained the improvement noted in his condition during the last 48 hours, a Vatican spokesman said today.

His spirits are better since the pain in his legs has subsided.

Prof. Amintore Milani, the Vatican physician, maintains his vigilance in fear that there might be complications in the pope's illness, or a weakening of the heart.

The pope conferred at length this morning with Cardinal Pacelli, his secretary of state.

SEN. WHEELER ASKS FOR RADIO FACTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Chairman Burton K. Wheeler of the senate interstate commerce committee, today asked the federal communications commission for information regarding operation of large broadcasting companies.

Wheeler recently said he was opposed to what he termed "chain radio companies" on the ground that they threatened a monopoly of radio channels and that, if necessary, he would introduce a bill to prevent large radio chains. He also expressed opposition to ownership of radio stations by newspapers.

BANDIT KILLED BY PASADENA OFFICER

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 8.—(UP)—Harry L. Butler, former president of the Pasadena Realty board, was killed yesterday by a police officer as he assertedly was about to rob a branch bank here.

The man was recognized by Detective George Diether as the person who robbed the bank once before. Diether called police and Butler drew a gun when approached by Officer Robert O'Rourke, elderly detective.

Both fired at almost the same instant but Butler's shot went wild while the officer's bullet dropped the suspect. Butler died en route to a hospital.

COOPER'S 89 LEADS LOS ANGELES GOLF

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Harry Cooper, wiry little campaigner who annexed the original title in 1926, seized the leadership in the $8000 Los Angeles Open tournament today when he teared the opening round in 34-35-69, three strokes under par.

Bracketed in second place with 70's were Willie Goggin of San Bruno, Cal.; Ralph Guidahl of St. Louis; Gray Madison of Phoenix, and Al Krueger of Beloit, Wis.

RABIES WARNING IS ISSUED HERE TODAY

Any person in Santa Ana who has been bitten by a dog recently or who may be bitten by one within the next three weeks, is urged to get in touch as soon as possible with Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, or H. D. Pickering, poundmaster.

The request, made by Dr. Sutherland, followed the discovery that a 15-month-old brown and white fox terrier, belonging to Webster Story, of 1312 Cypress, which died yesterday, was infected with positive rabies germs.

The dog, the health officer said, disappeared from home early last week and was gone for two days. When it returned home, Story found it ill.

"Please, also, watch your own dogs to see whether they may be sick," Dr. Sutherland advised. "The Story dog disappeared for two days and if it should have been fighting with other dogs, one of the others may have become infected. Sometimes it takes three weeks, or even a little longer, for rabies germs to develop. Therefore, I am making these requests as a matter of protection."

STATE TO FEED COAST STRIKERS

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 8.—(UP)—The state unemployment relief commission will start immediately to feed waterfront strikers who are directly in need of aid, Harold Pomeroy, relief administrator, reported today.

Exhaustion of the union "war chest" which was used to operate soup kitchens for maritime strikers will necessitate state aid, Pomeroy said. The relief commission will not deal with the union as a body, but will handle the cases of needy strikers individually.

Answering criticism from some sources that it was not the state's duty to feed people who "could go back to work if they really wanted to", officials here said the real point at issue was to prevent suffering.

Although declining to be quoted directly, officials said they believed 90 per cent of the strikers wanted to return to work, but were prevented from doing so by a small group of leaders who intimidated any who sought to desert the strike cause and seek employment.

Two Bandits Die In Electric Chair

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 8.—(UP)—Shouting they were innocent, two men died in the electric chair last night for the hold-up slaying of a subway collector, while their four companions rejoiced in a last minute commutation of sentence to life imprisonment.

Those dying were Theodore Di Dionne, 31, and Joseph (Tough Guy) Bologna, 24.

Still in the death house were Dominick Zizzo, Eugene Bruno, Salvatore Scata, and 19-year-old gang that murdered Edwin Esposito in September, 1935, in a robbery that netted $280.

EGG SHAMPOOS LUXURY BERLIN (UP)—Imports have been so severely restricted by Germany's four-year plan that beauty parlors in Berlin have been unable to get eggs for the favorite shampoo. As a result, women arrive to keep appointments with the hairdresser clutching paper bags containing fresh eggs.

Fat Girls Get The Go-By—Slim Girls Win Men

Lose Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

Here's a way to get rid of ugly fat that works hand in hand with Nature. Millions of people are losing millions of pounds of flabby flesh and getting back slender figures, without the need of starvation diets or back-breaking exercises.

Medical science has discovered that one of the causes of too much fat lies in a little gland. It is the duty of this tiny gland to make about one drop and a half every day of a vital fluid. This helps the body "burn" up food and excess fatty tissues just as a good draft of air helps the furnace to burn up coal without forming "clinkers". If this little gland doesn't make this drop and a half of fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat.

Doctors correct this condition by feeding this little gland the substance it lacks—and Marmola's Prescription Tablets are based on this same method. Millions are using them with success. They are prepared by a world-famous medical laboratory. Their formula is published in every package so you know what you are taking.

So don't waste time and money with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Go to your drugstore today and get a box of Marmola's. Try this simple, easy way to get rid of excess fat.

Hand Shaking Abolished For Salute

ROME, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Hand shaking was ordered abolished in Italy today in favor of the Fascist salute. Signed by the secretary of the Fascist party, the order said:

"Those who continue to shake hands rather than give the Fascist salute demonstrate a lack of Fascist spirit."

SPORTS WEAR SHOP SIGNS NEW LEASE

Work of remodeling the store room at 112 West Fourth street, formerly occupied by Hill and Carden's clothing store, will get under way Monday, following signing of a five-year lease on the property today by J. A. Adams and Mrs. Berna Adams of the Adams' Sports Wear Shop.

The property involved in the lease is owned jointly by C. H. Hopkins and the estate of Mrs. Emma L. French.

Following signing of the lease Adams said that he expects to open his shop in the new location not later than February 1. At present the Adams Sports Wear Shop is located in the Otis building, Fourth and Main streets.

The lease was negotiated by E. S. Goodner, Santa Ana real estate broker.

LOYALISTS FIGHT OFF INSURGENTS

MADRID, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Fighting desperately to prevent further insurgent advances, Loyalist artillery drew a curtain of steel around northwest Madrid today after an all-night battle in which both sides suffered heavy losses. As details of the engagement came out of Madrid, the first word passed by censors since Thursday afternoon, it was reported that Remisa Hill, in the woods between Pozuelo and Majadahonda, had been won and lost three times during the night's fighting.

Dawn found the strategic spot in possession of the Loyalist forces who were preparing to launch a counter-attack on Majadahonda in an effort to dislodge the insurgent troops who have driven the government forces back to their second lines of defense.

Child Actress Is Barred By Court

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Jane Withers, child screen comedienne, is too young to appear in theatrical performances in the state of Massachusetts, the Boston municipal court ruled today.

Jane, who is 10, completed a Boston engagement last night. The state department of labor and industries charged that Jane's performance violated laws which prohibit children under 14 working while school was in session and working after 6 p. m.

BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT CITED BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IN BUDGET MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(UP)—The text of President Roosevelt's budget message follows:

To the Congress of the United States:
Pursuant to provisions of law I transmit herewith the budget of the United States government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1938, together with this message, which is a part thereof.

The estimates have been developed after careful analysis of the revenues, obligations, and reasonable needs of the government, and I recommend appropriations for the purposes specifically detailed herein.

PART I

The programs inaugurated during the last four years to combat the depression and to initiate many needed reforms have cost large sums of money, but the benefits obtained from them are far outweighing all their costs. We shall soon be reaping the full benefits of these programs and shall have at the same time a balanced budget that will also include provision for reduction of the public debt.

Two Objectives

The fiscal plans of the federal government for these four years have been formulated with two objectives in mind. Our first was to restore a successful economic life to the country by providing greater employment and purchasing power for the people, by stimulating a more balanced use of our productive capacity, and by increasing the national income and distributing it on a wider base of prosperity. Our second was to gain new advantages of permanent benefit for the American people. Both of these objectives can be accomplished under a sound financial policy.

Business conditions have shown each year since 1933 a marked improvement over the preceding year. Employment in private industry is increasing. Industrial production, factory pay rolls, and farm prices have steadily risen.

These gains make it possible to reduce for the fiscal year 1938 many expenditures of the federal government which the general depression made necessary. Although we must continue to spend substantial sums to provide work for those whom industry has not yet absorbed, the 1938 budget is in balance, and except for debt reduction of $40,535,000, it will remain in balance even if later on there are included additional expenditures of as much as $1,537,123,000 for recovery and relief. We expect, moreover, if improvement in economic conditions continues at the present rate, to be able to attain in 1939 a completely balanced budget, with full provision for meeting the statutory requirements for debt reduction.

In carrying out this policy, the American people are obtaining lasting benefits. Economic protection of the aged and physically handicapped is being secured through the operations of the Social Security Act. Ability of the farmer to obtain a more constant livelihood has been enhanced by the enactment of legislation especially designed for that purpose. The home owner has been benefited through the financing of mortgages at reasonable rates of interest. Investors in securities are being given a larger measure of protection by the securities and exchange act. The market for corporate securities has been restored and industry has been able to finance its long-term requirements on a favorable basis. The rights of labor are being materially advanced through operation of the national labor relations act.

To Submit Plan
I plan to submit at a later date an estimate of appropriation for additional relief for the fiscal year 1938, which I hope will not exceed the amount of $1,537,123,000, previously mentioned. This hope is based on the assumption that industry will co-operate in employing men and women from the relief rolls in larger numbers than during the past year. Many of those in charge of industrial management, recognizing their ob-the postal service is not self-supporting because it carries other classes of mail at a considerable loss. It should be the definite policy of the government to operate the postal service out of postal receipts, and a continuation of the 2-cent rate will be necessary step toward the accomplishment of this purpose.

To Be Continued

Civilian Conservation Corps.—The Civilian Conservation Corps has demonstrated its usefulness and has met with general public approval. It should be continued. I intend shortly to submit a supplemental estimate of appropriation to carry the corps from March 31, 1937, to the end of the current fiscal year; and I strongly recommend that congress enact during its present session the necessary legislation to establish the corps as a permanent agency of the government.

Expenses of Emergency Agencies.—There are included in the 1938 budget pursuant to the direction of congress at its last session, estimates of appropriations for the administrative expenses of certain emergency agencies and corporations. Such of the emergency agencies and corporations as may be continued by congress should have all of their expenditure requirements made subject to the same scrutiny that is given by the bureau of the budget to the expenditure requirements of the regular departments and establishments; and I recommend that a provision to that effect be included in any future legislation for the continuance of any such agency or corporation.

PART III

Review of the fiscal years 1936 and 1937, and the fiscal program for 1938:

This review concerns itself with the cash actually received and paid out by the treasury in the fiscal year 1936, with the estimates of receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year 1937, and with the fiscal program for 1938.

Fiscal Year 1936

Receipts.—Treasury receipts for the year ended June 30, 1936, amounted to $4,115,956,615, about $295,000,000 less than estimated a year ago. As a result of Supreme court decisions, the government lost about $457,000,000 in revenue from taxes levied under the agricultural adjustment act and the bituminous coal act. Had it not been for the invalidation of these taxes, the total receipts received during the fiscal year 1936 would have exceeded the revenue estimates of a year ago by $162,000,000.

The collection of taxes on carriers and their employees, estimated at $33,000,000, has been deferred to the fiscal year 1937 because of pending litigation. The receipts from income taxes were about $7,500,000 less than last year's estimate.

On the other hand, miscellaneous internal-revenue taxes produced $136,488,000 more than was anticipated; customs revenue, $33,621,000 more; miscellaneous receipts, $21,053,000 more; and realization upon assets, $1,483,000 more.

Expenditures

Expenditures.—The total expenditures for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1936 (exclusive of expenditures from postal revenues), amount to $8,879,798,255, as compared with the estimate of $7,645,301,388 shown in the budget submitted a year ago. This latter amount did not, however, include $1,673,493,000 for adjusted compensation payments to veterans.

The expenditures for the year, excluding these payments, were, therefore, about $79,000,000 less than the estimate.

The total expenditures for recovery and relief were $2,776,796,489 against an estimate of $2,869,068,187. For the operation and maintenance of the regular departments and establishments of the government the expenditures amounted to $3,276,872,306 as compared with estimates of $3,482,208,151. For statutory debt retirement there was expended $408,240,150, and for interest on the public debt $749,396,802, the amounts budgeted for these items being $522,025,000 and $742,000,000 respectively.

Deficit $4,763,841,642

Deficits and Public Debt.—The gross deficit for the fiscal year 1936 amounted to $4,763,841,642, including $408,240,150 for statutory debt retirement, there was a net deficit of $4,355,601,492. The estimated net deficit as contained in the budget submitted a year ago was $2,682,482,392 a difference of $1,673,119,100.

As previously indicated, the original estimate has been affected to the extent of $457,000,000 as a result of the invalidation of taxes levied under the agricultural adjustment and bituminous coal acts and by the additional expenditures of $1,673,493,000 under the adjusted compensation act. If it had not been for the increase in the deficit due to these causes, the net deficit for the fiscal year 1936 would have been about $452,000,000 less than that originally estimated.

The increase in the gross public debt during the year amounted to $5,077,650,869, but this summer included an increase of the balance in the general fund of the treasury of $840,164,664. The gross public debt on June 30, 1936, was $33,778,494,000.

Fiscal Year 1937

Receipts.—The income of the federal government during the fiscal year 1937 will increase sharply over that of 1936. It is expected that the total revenue from all sources (exclusive of postal revenues) will amount to $5,828,151,000. This represents an increase of $1,712,194,000 over the actual receipts for the fiscal year 1936 and an increase of $178,933,000 over the estimates contained in the 1937 budget as submitted a year ago.

The general improvement in business conditions and the enactment of the revenue act of 1936 have resulted in additional revenues from taxes which will not only make up the loss in revenue due to the Supreme court decisions invalidating the taxes levied under the agricultural adjustment and bituminous coal acts, but will produce additional income of approximately $174,000,000.

Record Crowds at Auto Shows This Year

All previous records for attendance and enthusiasm were broken at New York, Detroit and Chicago this year as the 1936 schedule of Automobile Shows throughout the country got under way. Here are some random glimpses from the Shows that are causing leaders to predict the biggest year in history for the automobile industry. Upper left is Barney Oldfield, back at the wheel of an ancient racing car, in the "endurance" race of 20 blocks which preceded the New York Auto Show. Here he illustrates the progress of 27 years by contrast with one of the new Plymouth models from the Show. Center left is a scene at the Detroit Auto Show, showing unusual crowds at the Plymouth exhibit to hear trained lecturers explain mechanical features of the 1937 cars. Celebrities from the theatrical world get special attention (lower right), as Plymouth Vice-President H. G. Moock explains the new engines to the "twin stars" Helen Claire and Rose Marie Brancato. And youth has its innings, too (center right), as Eleanor Sykes, 12-year-old winner of the national Safety Essay contest, looks on with Dr. Harry D. Sylva of the Harvard Traffic Bureau, while Plymouth's safety expert, Barney Oldfield, takes a driver's test at the Show. All signs point to another banner year for the auto industry.

Since the revenue act of 1936 materially changes the tax structure, the individual items of revenue as contained in the original 1937 budget will not be exactly comparable with the individual items in the 1937 budget as revised in this message.

Income Tax Yield

Income taxes are expected to yield $2,372,900,000, or $946,325,000 more than was received from this source last year; miscellaneous internal revenue, $2,274,968,000, an increase of $265,389,000; customs duties, $446,800,000, an increase of $59,988,000; and realization upon assets, $31,830,000, an increase of $26,362,000. In addition, it is expected that the new tax on unjust enrichment provided by the revenue act of 1936 will amount to $82,000,000 and that the tax on carriers and their employees will be $134,552,000, including $33,000,000 deferred from the previous fiscal year. The collection of taxes levied under the Social Security act will begin in the last half of the fiscal year 1937, and it is expected that these taxes will produce additional revenue in the amount of $324,600,000.

Miscellaneous

The only item of revenue showing any decrease is that of miscellaneous receipts, in the amount of $50,325,000, which is due to reductions in interest payments made to the treasury by the reconstruction finance corporation. Expenditures.—From present indications, expenditures for the fiscal year 1937 (exclusive of expenditures from postal revenues) will amount to $8,480,804,000. Exclusive of statutory debt retirement and adjusted compensation payments, the total expenditures will amount to $7,512,779,000, an increase over comparable expenditures for 1936 of $709,714,000.

Increases Listed

This amount is made up of increases of $711,192,000 on account of the Social Security act, $85,608,000 on account of interest on the public debt, $194,161,000 for the general public works program, $123,442,000 for national defense, and $29,914,000 for other purposes; and decreases of $93,321,000 for the veterans' administration, $74,996,000 for the agricultural adjustment program, and $118,281,000 for the Civilian Conservation Corps. The amount of the recovery and relief expenditures has been estimated at $2,166,157,000, but there is included in the supplemental expenditure items $650,000,000 from an appropriation of $790,000,000 to be requested of congress for the purpose of carrying the Works Progress Administration and related programs from February 1 to June 30, 1937. This will increase the estimated expenditures for recovery and relief to $2,816,157,000, an increase of $89,361,000 over 1936.

Drought Expenditures

The expenditures in the current fiscal year will include, however, the sum of about $165,000,000 for assistance given to individuals and communities directly or indirectly affected by the widespread drought conditions prevailing during the past summer. If this drought had not occurred, the net cost of recovery and relief for the current fiscal year would have been about $125,000,000 below the cost for the previous fiscal year. Deficit and Public Debt.—The current estimates for the fiscal year 1937 show a gross deficit of $2,652,654,000. Deducting public

GRANDMOTHER USES PANTRY COMPOUNDS TO MANUFACTURE INDESTRUCTIBLE DOLL HEADS

SUPERIOR, Wis. (UP)—Mrs. Iva Dingwall tired of watching her grandchildren discard expensively dressed dolls in favor of tattered and cheaply formed "Raggedy Annies."

She resolved finally to make a rag doll that could have some vestige of reality. She wanted to fashion a doll with a truly unbreakable head—a round shaped head with painted features. And she did it.

"It was simply observation and a general knowledge of the powers of compounds in my own pantry," Mrs. Dingwall says modestly.

"At first I was not altogether successful, but my experimenting proved interesting and I kept it up. Before long I was truly amazed. Toward the end I was getting the same successful results with each effort."

The rag doll, mothered at some time or other by every little girl, has no origin. Perhaps, the present American plaything originated from the Hindu doll which is stuffed with rags. Mrs. Dingwall experimented with her process for three months before making any dolls. Today the little round-shaped heads, unbreakable, are attached to a jersey body which has been filled with straw and rags.

The Superior woman molds a head (filled completely with ingredients from the pantry) lets it harden for a few minutes and then paints the face with watercolors. The product is unbreakable. To demonstrate Mrs. Dingwall took a doll by the legs and banged its head against the back of a hard chair.

"What's in the heads?" "That's my secret," Mrs. Dingwall said. "I've applied for a patent in Washington."

ASTRONOMER SAYS JUMPER ON ASTEROIDS COULD CLEAR FIVE MILES WITH SINGLE TAKE-OFF

LOS ANGELES (UP)—An asteroid is a strange place, where a man could jump out of sight with one bound, according to E. A. Foster, astronomer, who has computed the gravity pull of these tiny neighbors of the earth.

These "whizzing around the sun in great numbers. Because of their small size, the gravity pull at their surface is only a fraction of that on earth, Foster said. On one of these rocky balls eight miles in diameter, the gravity would be only one-thousandth of the earth's.

"If we could be transported to such an asteroid and live, we could have most extraordinary experiences," the astronomer said. "A high-jumper who could clear a bar at 6 feet on the earth could rise to 4002 feet on the asteroids. "On earth such a jumper is off the ground for about one second, while on the asteroid he would be off the surface for 16.7 minutes. He would virtually float upward for half that time, and down the other half.

"At the top of the jump he would appear as a mere speck to the naked eye. "A broad jumper who could make a jump of 25 feet on earth would have a still more thrilling experience. He could jump 25,000 feet and at the peak of the jump he would be 300 feet above ground.

"For spectators at the take-off, the jumper would disappear over the horizon long before he landed." The catch in such a rosy athletic drama, it was explained, is that no human being could live on an asteroid. It would be too hot or too cold, and there wouldn't be any air to breathe.

Foster is an astronomer at Carleton College of Minnesota.

GAY, OPTIMISTIC ON IMMEDIATE FUTURE, GIVES CREDIT WARNING

BY CHARLES R. GAY
President, New York Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, (UP)—Recovery having now proceeded to the point where confidence is beginning to reassert itself and doubts about future profits are beginning to recede, we may look back on 1936 as the year in which the people gradually turned from an anxiety about the problems of the passing depression to a concern about the problems of an approaching prosperity.

Already in some parts of the business structure the effort to search out markets adequate to absorb output has been superseded by endeavors to supply goods in the quantities demanded. Then, too, the rising tide of corporate earnings and dividends, taken in conjunction with superabundant investment funds of both domestic and foreign origin, has produced advances in the prices of securities gratifying to investors. Although these advances have proceeded substantially without use of loan credit or excessive trading activity, they have, nevertheless, been sufficiently impressive to give concern in some quarters lest the problems of the previous era of prosperity might reappear.

The principal problem of the period that lies before us may well be to avoid a too sudden or too full use of the nation's swollen bank deposits and credit resources. Should the employment of credit proceed too rapidly in relation to the reemployment of workers in productive industry the result might be disconcerting advances in prices. Indeed, goods prices and living costs have advanced in recent months.

I am optimistic for the immediate future, but obviously, difficult readjustments are still to be made in the direction of a normal condition of economic life.

SMELTZER, Jan. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hell and sons arrived Sunday from a month's vacation trip east where they went to purchase a new car and spend the holidays with relatives.

Engineer Sails 1,500,996 Miles With One Line

NEW YORK (UP)—When the liner Santa Clara docks at New York Jan. 13 from Valparaiso, Chile, Chief Engineer Charles H. Elliott will have completed exactly 1,500,996 miles in 23 years with the Grace Line. During that period, which includes two years transporting troops through the submarine-infested Mediterranean, he has never met with a disaster at sea. The worst that ever befell him was the loss of a couple of propeller blades when they tangled with submerged wreckage.

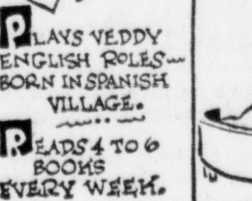

Born in Philadelphia, Elliott started his career at sea at the age of 24. He is 53 now. His roster of travel reads like a page from a geography book. One of the first men to go through the Panama Canal, he since has traversed the "big ditch" more than 200 times. He has been around "the bottom of the earth" through the Straits of Magellan—some 14 or 15 times and crossed the Atlantic a dozen times to take troops and supplies to France and then to bring them home after the war.

Asked recently what he thought of youths making a career for themselves at sea, Elliott said:

"My advice is that if a boy has a yearning to go to sea, by all means go. There is more chance today than ever before for a youth to make a real career for himself. The pay is good and the work isn't what it was when I first started. I wouldn't trade my job for the best of those on land."

Jimmy Fidler in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 8. — Idol chatter: Hard to keep up with Joan Harlow's beauty spot; it's been moved from lower chin right to upper cheek left. Peas from the same pod: Carole Lombard and Ann Sothern. Wonder if Mary Astor is writing a sequel to her diary? Robert Taylor feels better since he read about that once-tough gangster named "Pretty Boy" Floyd. Joan Crawford with hair skinned back and face cold-creamed still looks swell.

But you never thought of it for shivering, but Boris Karloff has one of the screen's most beautiful voices. Every time I hear the name Errol Flynn, I think of Leon Errol—which is my errol. (Stet). And crazy ideas: To weigh all the "heavies" and see which is the heaviest. Mrs. Carney sniffs at Jimmy's auction bargains so he hides most of them under the bed so his Missus won't muss his hair. Steve Clementi performs his expert movie knife throwing at $25 a miss, and he had better!

George Arliss, a vegetarian, will eat nothing he can get except fish, which he can't. Eddie Cantor's priceless crack: "Parkyakarcus is waiting for Anthony Adverse to come out in Readers' Digest." If studio politics were as clean as the last Presidential election, studio employees would be lots happier. Mae West is so inured to camera-men that she never bats an eye when the flash pops. Katharine De Mille has taken massages (to pound off her weight) almost daily for five years.

Hardly a week goes by but some new beauty arrives in town, fresh from posing for magazine or billboard advertising. Walk the length of the boulevard and most likely you will meet "The girl whose best friend would not tell her" or the "fellow who caused laughter when he sat at the piano." Each time these new models invade Hollywood, press agents make much whoop-de-do of the fact. Perhaps it is this premature publicity which marks and hurts them, for few models within recent years have crashed to film success.

Yet there was a time when such a background helped. Visit the homes of Norma Shearer or Fredric March and they will (on request) drag forth old scrapbooks filled with advertisements for which they posed. They will howl with laughter over these ads, made fifteen years ago and today quite funny. Richard Arlen came from the same field; he was one of the original "Arrow Collar Men." Huntley Gordon and Reed Howes also advertised collars. Of the late-comers from magazine advertising, Astrid Allwyn has achieved most. She stepped from the inside cover of Vogue into a motion picture contract.

Sulphate Used In Road Experiment

GRAND FORKS, N. D., (UP)—North Dakota School of Mines is seeking a "home market" for the huge sodium sulphate deposits in Western South Dakota.

The sodium sulphate is used to stabilize dirt and gravel highways; in experimental projects at the school. A majority of North Dakota's roads are of dirt or gravel construction.

A federal project under supervision of Dr. O. T. Zimmerman of the school, is centering attention of the problem of eliminating dust, road boils and reduction of wind and water erosion by application of sodium sulphate.

In co-operation with the state highway department, dirt, clay and gravel from all sections of the state is being tested for adaptability in construction of all-weather dirt and gravel highways.

ODDS 150 TO 1 AGAINST CHANGE IN CONSTITUTION

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (UP)—A proposal to change the fundamental law of the United States has one chance in 150 of becoming a part of the Constitution.

But, according to Dr. Jacob Tanager, professor of political science at Pennsylvania State College, the American people still insist on making attempts to amend the Constitution.

He found that 522 amendment proposals were introduced in the five Congresses of the past decade, and pointed out that only two became a part of the Constitution: the 20th, eliminating the "lame duck" session of Congress; and the 21st, repealing the 18th, the prohibition amendment.

In all the American people have made 3148 attempts to change their law since the Government began operation under the Constitution in 1789, with 1300 proposals introduced in the first century of the nation's history, and 1348 recorded in the first 47 years of the second century.

"Throughout the span of a century and a half of political experience the people have directed frequent criticisms at their laws," Dr. Tanager said. "They serve as a fairly accurate index of social, economic and political series of problems confronting the Government throughout its history."

Dr. Tanager's summary disclosed

VOLCANIC GAS GIVES WARNING OF ERUPTIONS

HONOLULU (UP)—The science of predicting volcanic eruption by studying escaping gases is being advanced in Hawaii.

The work now being carried on originated as a result of findings by Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, U. S. volcanologist in Hawaii National Park. He had collected gases from Kilauea in three previous eruptions, and tests revealed the presence of a considerable quantity of hydrogen, the gas commonly used in inflating balloons.

That and other evidence led Dr. Jaggar to believe that hydrogen might be one of the principal factors in volcanic action. Moreover Dr. Jaggar and his associates are convinced that by tracing the kinds of gas that are most prominent in different kinds of volcanic action, they may lay a basis not only for the prediction of when an eruption is likely to occur, but what kind of eruption it may be.

Special Course Set Up
As a result of these first findings and theories, the University of that during the 74 Congresses an average of 42 proposals to amend the Constitution have been introduced in each Congress. He indicated an increase might be expected in the 75th Congress.

Hawaii has established a system and course in "gas catching."

The work is in a part of the physics department of the University of Hawaii. A laboratory has been established on the edge of the crater a wireless message is sent to the laboratories of the university.

Here Dr. Stanley S. Ballard, professor in physics, has all the facilities necessary to permit himself and members of his class to fly immediately to the crater and start the work of "gas catching."

Tubes 3 feet long, with a 4 inch bulb at the end are used to catch the gas. They were designed by Dr. Ballard.

Air is first pumped out of the tubes by a vacuum pump until the air pressure inside is only one two-millionth of normal atmospheric pressure, and then the tubes are sealed. As soon as gas is found escaping from the crater, the tube is thrust into an opening or into lava, then the tip is broken by a special device. Gas from the volcano then rushes into the near-vacuum in the tube. It is prevented from escaping by vacuum tight stop locks.

Volcano Not Dangerous
Kilauea offers an ideal volcano for this study as it is not dangerous. What is learned there can be applied to volcanoes in other parts of the world that are dangerous, and where human lives and property may be saved by the ability to predict from the escaping gas the approach of an eruption.

The work will also be aided by another and new method of analysis which uses the spectroscopic to supplement the standard chemical methods. This is useful in detecting substances which appear only in minute traces, scientists say.

Simultaneously with the gas catching, research along a related line is being carried on by Iva Miyake, another member of the University of Hawaii physics department. Miyake has devised a method for measuring the speed of earthquake waves by short wave radio.

Speed of Wave Measured

When tremors in the firepit of a volcano start a seismic wave, or earthquake, a small apparatus placed on the floor of the large crater that surrounds the firepit, flashes a signal to the observatory. The seismic wave itself, arriving a few seconds later also registers on the observatory's instruments. The difference in time between the two registrations indicates the speed at which the earth wave is traveling, because the distance already is known.

It is expected that this small scale laboratory experiment in timing earthquake waves will result in practical use of the method on a larger scale, permitting warning of quakes in countries where these are dangerous.

These experiments have been made possible by co-operation between the university, the Hawaiian Volcanic Research Association and the U. S. National Park Service. Dr. Jaggar, government volcanologist, has been named research professor of experimental geophysics at the university, and Dr. Ballard and Miyake have been made research associates at the newly organized Kilauea laboratory.

FERRIS SCOTT, DALE GRIGGS, BEST TALKERS

Members of El Camino Toastmasters club, with President W. H. (Ted) Blanding presiding, held their regular meeting at Danie's tea room last night. Speakers Ferris Scott and Dale Griggs, running "one" and "two" in the scoring of speech competition.

Table topic of the evening dealt with the question of raising present dues of 25 cents per month, but members decided to continue with the present amount. Dr. M. W. Hollingsworth introduced an amendment to the by-laws, which has to do with donations; a decision will be made on the amendment, later.

Glenn Tidball was toastmaster of the evening with Glenn Woolley acting as general critic.

Ferris Scott, speaking on "Event of the Spanish-American War," was criticized by Dr. Hollingsworth; Dale Griggs, speaking on "Shortage of Skilled Labor," was criticized by William McQuarrie. Other speakers and their critics were as follows: Bill Gray, "Vacation," criticized by W. H. (Ted) Blanding; E. M. Sundquist, "History of Heraldry," criticized by Paul Alberts; George Cruickshank, "Bowling," criticized by Ralph Raitt; and Bob Hockaday, "My Hobby," criticized by Nolan Doss. Malcolm Macdura was time-keeper for the evening.

TOM LIEB ACCEPTS B. P. O. E. INVITATION

Coach Tom Lieb of Loyola today accepted an invitation to attend the Santa Ana Elks' third annual Champions' Night Tuesday night.

Bill Spaulding of U. C. L. A. assured Committee Chairman R. W. (Bill) Cole he would be here if possible, and Coach "Jeff" Cravath of U. S. C. promised to attend along with some other Trojan staff man, perhaps Howard Jones and Sam Barry.

The Los Angeles Bulldogs and Chicago Bears will be represented at the gathering, at which Coach Bill Cook and his Dons and other Orange county coaches and athletes will be honored.

Court Notes

The Santa Ana Mortgage and Investment company today filed suit in superior court against the Harper M. E. church at Costa Mesa, to foreclose a $13,975.50 mortgage against the church property.

Miss Idabel Durgan, of Orange, public health nurse, today applied to superior court for letters of administration over the $1500 estate left by her mother, the late Margaret A. Durgan, who died in 1935. The heirs are three daughters, including the petitioner, Letitia Irene Durgan, of Vermont, and Josephine E. Kerr, of Los Angeles county.

Charging habitual intemperance, Mrs. Rita Ochoa, of Anaheim, today filed suit in superior court for divorce from Moses Ochoa, whom she married in Los Angeles in 1925. They separated last September 28.

TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY HEAD DIES SUDDENLY

George D. Griffith, 59, a native of Emporia, Kansas, but a resident of the Anaheim district for the past nine years, died yesterday at his home after a short illness.

Services will be held at the Griffith's Placentia avenue home, Anaheim, Saturday at 2 p. m. with the Rev. Perry F. Schrock of the Santa Ana Congregational church in charge.

The body will be shipped to Emporia, Kansas, for burial following the services at Anaheim.

It has been requested that flowers be omitted.

Backs, Terry and Campbell, Anaheim funeral directors, are in charge of the arrangements.

Griffith lived on Placentia avenue, just north of Center street, and just east of the city of Anaheim.

He leaves a wife, Caroline Plum Griffith and two sons, David, and George Jr., of Anaheim. His brother, William Griffith, Laguna Beach artist, also survives, as does a sister, Mrs. Jones, Long Beach.

At the time of Griffith's death he was president of the Orange County Tuberculosis association; member of the Santa Ana First Congregational church and member of the church's board of trustees.

SAILOR LEADS NOT GUILTY TO FELONY CHARGE

Frank Meyer, young sailor, and his companion, Raymond E. Fellows, who were accused of severely beating Paul James, when he objected to their exuberant wrecking of his cafe on West Fourth street, Santa Ana, last December 20, today pleaded not guilty to a felony charge, when arraigned before Superior Judge James L. Allen. Trial was set for January 14 in Judge G. K. Scovel's court.

James alleges the two youths entered his cafe in an intoxicated condition and began over-turning tables and booths. When he started to call police, one of them struck him across the mouth with a bottle, knocking his teeth out, he claims.

Attorney Gordon K. Richmond of Orange represented the defendants in court today when they pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault by means of force likely to produce great bodily harm. Assistant District Attorney James L. Davis filed the information against them in court.

Leonardo Contreras, charged with drunk driving and injury to Mrs. George E. Hughes in an automobile crash near La Habra December 25, pleaded guilty and asked probation. Hearing was set for January 15.

Daniel Ruiz pleaded guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old Santa Ana Mexican girl, whom he took from her home to San Diego last December 6. His plea for probation was set for hearing January 15.

KATHRYN ADAMS APPOINTED IN WELFARE DEPT.

Appointment of Miss Kathryn Adams, of Anaheim, as acting case supervisor in the Orange county social welfare department succeeded today by Jack W. Snow, newly appointed director of the department.

The appointment represents the first change in welfare personnel made by the new director, who succeeded Byron V. Curry last Tuesday by appointment from the county supervisors. Whether further reorganization is contemplated by Director Snow was not made known.

Snow's announcement stated that "Miss Adams will assume the responsibilities and duties formerly carried by Mrs. Ada Ehlen, who is being released from departmental duties."

Miss Adams is a native and resident of Anaheim. She is a graduate of Oregon State College, class of 1929, specializing in economics and sociology. She has taken undergraduate work at the New York School of Social Work and has had three years' experience as case worker and case supervisor in the local office of the state relief administration.

She is a daughter of Henry Adams, well-known Anaheim business man, an official of the Gibbs Lumber company.

Miss Adams will assume her duties at once. Mrs. Ehlen will remain on active duty until January 15, with two weeks' vacation following.

SUICIDE VERDICT IN YAHIRO DEATH

Following an inquest at Anaheim yesterday afternoon, the body of Tsuyako Yahiro, beautiful 22-year-old Japanese girl, who took her life by throwing herself beneath a Pacific Electric Railway Co. train in Cypress Wednesday afternoon, today lay in a Japanese funeral parlor in Los Angeles.

Coroner Earl Abbey, who was in charge of the inquest and who conducted a thorough investigation into the tragedy Wednesday and Thursday morning, examined several witnesses and then signed a formal verdict of suicide.

Among the witnesses was John M. Yahiro, brother-in-law of the girl, and with whom she had conversed over the telephone about an hour before she took her life.

Yahiro and the girl's father, who is a Japanese resident, accompanied the body to Los Angeles, where interment will be made.

ANTIQUES WILL BE EXHIBITED TONIGHT

Rare East Indian manuscripts more than 400 years old written on palm leaves, queer musical instruments, beautiful carvings in wood and ivory and articles used by witch doctors of India, are to be exhibited tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Walker Memorial hall in Orange, when the Rev. M. L. Wyneken, will speak on "The Human Side of Missions."

The speaker has served as a missionary among the hill tribes of a primitive people of India with strange customs and devil worshiping practices. The talk is to be illustrated by colored slides made from pictures taken by the missionary.

KEN Murray SAYS:

BOSTON, January 8.—President Roosevelt and art lovers everywhere are certainly delighted at Andrew Mellon's generous donation of his $20,000,000 collection of rare paintings to the government. . . . This is possibly the biggest deal in oil any administration has made since the days of Teapot Dome.

The fact that Mr. Mellon had so many "old masters" just goes to show that there is one big banker who didn't devote all his time to merely collecting those portraits on the face of Uncle Sam's currency.

Naturally, I imagine that the former Secretary of the Treasury would rather have donated the pictures to a Republican administration, but guess he figured that the present generation should get some benefit from them.

P. S. While we have no present day artists that as yet compare with those who created Mr. Mellon's masterpieces, that fellow Jim Farley certainly proved on November 3rd that he can paint pictures which the public likes.

ACTIVITIES ARE OUTLINED BY FARM BUREAU

Many future activities of the various branches of the Orange County Farm Bureau, Inc., were outlined today by Dian R. Gardner, president, who emphasized the importance of proposed legislation.

Among these was the appointment of L. P. Halderman, vice president of the corporation, to head a committee to plan for the annual picnic of the bureau that will be staged in May.

The ways and means committee was authorized to cooperate with the agricultural extension course in holding an economic conference in February. This parley will analyze land use and problems in relation to the national land use program.

Gardner notified officers to contact all centers, committees and departments to point out that 1937 will be a legislative year, and urge them to give attention to all proposed state and national legislation so action on various measures may be taken from time to time.

Gardner said the policy of center judging would be continued, and that scoring would be made during February, March, April, May and September.

The first officers' meeting of the corporation will be arranged soon, and plans will be made to continue the public speaking course that was started last fall.

MRS. FRED WILSON HURT IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. C. Fred Wilson, 923 North Olive, Santa Ana, was slightly injured in front of 2111 North Flower street, when a car driven by her husband, and a truck driven by Albert Zeno Shelley, 1107 West Walnut, Santa Ana, collided. Mrs. Wilson suffered right arm injury.

None was injured yesterday afternoon at Third and Baker streets as cars driven by O. W. Shaban, Route 1, Garden Grove, and Harvey Miranda, 1802 West Second, collided. The accident involved a rear end collision, according to Officers George Boyd and W. H. Hoard, who investigated both accidents.

THE Arctic musk-ox is related to both the cattle and sheep groups, but the relationship is not close in either case. The "musk" part of the name is well founded, however, due to the musky odor of the animal, which, some naturalists say, permeates even the flesh.

COAST EROSION SURVEY VOTE IS PUT OVER

Despite favorable comment, and strong endorsement of the proposed Orange county coast erosion survey by City Engineer Victor W. Hayes, members of the Seal Beach city council in session here last night delayed vote on the $150 share of the cost allocated to this city, leaving it as unfinished business to come up on January 21, the next council meeting date.

That participation in such a survey would aid in securing the pier needed here, and would provide data necessary to determine the length and structure when it is built, was pointed out by City Attorney Burr Brown, and won support from Councilman Dr. Ernest R. Green. Cost to the city, according to the board of supervisors would be $150, with Newport Beach paying $775, and Orange county paying the cost for the unincorporated beach fronts. This program is being pushed locally Brown says. In order to obtain it as soon as possible, as necessary details in the state wide survey launched by Los Angeles county may cause long delay.

Current action of the council in circulating petitions among property owners to obtain a new pier, got new impetus from the newly formed Seal Beach Improvement Association in a letter recommending that such action be taken. The petitions have been in circulation for two weeks according to Mayor Elmer J. Hughes. Further recommendations that the city determine costs and desirability of ornamental street lights on Ocean avenue, and the continuing of Central avenue to a new bridge at Anaheim channel, and that the city resurface alleys, were received and filed.

Sardine fishing boats in local waters may run afoul legal entanglements if efforts of Mayor Hughes through co-operation with the attorneys for the League of Municipalities, now in Sacramento, materialize. Many of the fishing boats that have been coming in close to shore use their take for reduction for fertilizer, he says. City Attorney Brown, instructed by Hughes, will turn information over to the League of Municipality attorneys for action.

Protests on the tax payments made by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, and the Southern Counties Gas Company filed with city tax collector C. A. Miller, were referred to Attorney Brown.

The city is eager by 30.18 returned to the municipal treasury by Anaheim Day post, Unit 300, American Legion Auxiliary. The sum represents the city's share of unused money collected by the unit to provide Christmas baskets for all needy persons in the community.

Plans were made for the annual meeting of the Orange chapter, to be held January 26 at 7:30 in the recreation lounge of the Orange fire hall. A. K. Schafer, manager of the Pacific branch office of the National Red Cross in San Francisco, will be guest speaker.

Mr. Schafer will also officially open the first aid station in Irvine park at 3 p. m. before the meeting. Dr. Thomas B. Rhone, first aid chairman of the Orange chapter, is in charge of the program at the opening. Both city and county officers will be present.

Dr. Thomas also reported that 18 persons had passed the standard first aid course, with Delbert Lewis instructing the classes. There is one class still under instruction.

Carl Thomas, principal of the grammar school, reported progress being made in Junior Red

Local Briefs

Cost of handling walnuts was the subject under discussion this morning at a meeting of growers in the Orange County Farm Bureau building on North Main street. D. S. Halladay, of Santa Ana, president at the session, which was attended by representatives of all walnut houses in the county.

Permission for construction of a five-room frame and stucco residence, with garage, at 1922 North Parton, was granted by Building Inspector Harold O. Rasmussen yesterday. The owner, I. J. Burd, 1010 West Myrtle, also will be the builder. The home will be 35x39 feet in dimensions and will cost $3000.

The body of Pearl Sam, placed in the house chapel, has disappeared. Later Ramon and Angeline learn that it has been buried in the yard. The officers have been sent for. Next morning Pearl Pierre falls to appear. He is found, lifeless, below a rocky ledge, the same knife that killed his brother, in his hand.

Pearl John announces he is going to destroy the knife, but when he goes to get it, the knife has disappeared. Pearl John accuses the Indian servant, BROKEN SHIELD, of the murder, and Tante Josephine defends him. Next morning Tante Josephine, too, is dead.

Broken Shield is not to be found. Professor Shaw investigates the cellar of the house, discovers a secret passage and is about to enter it when someone springs on him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIX

When the dinner hour arrived Bob went to Professor Shaw's room to call him. There was no response to his knock, so Bob opened the door and found the room empty. Another person missing! Feeling terror, he returned to the living room and told Pearl John that the professor was not in his room. The others had all gone to the dining room.

For an instant Pearl John's face paled. Then he laid a hand on Bob's arm. "Not a word of this to the others until we're sure he is not on the place somewhere. Was there anything out of place in his room?" He asked the last question because Bob's face showed that he still had something on his mind.

"No," Bob answered, "but since so much has happened, I think I ought to tell you what I saw the night before Pearl Pierre's death." He related in detail the scene in the hall outside his door between Pearl Pierre and Angeline and told how the girl had trailed Pearl Pierre to the door with the lion's head knocker.

PEARL JOHN walked toward the dining room. To the others in the dining room he explained, "Professor Shaw does not care for lunch. Angeline, perhaps you would take

FRUIT GROWERS OF COUNTY TO BE PROTECTED

Interests of Orange county orange growers in the projected battle with Florida growers to protect national advertising of local products, will be handled through executives of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange at Los Angeles.

Clarence B. Skiles, president of the Orange County Fruit Exchange, explained this morning that all such matters are handled through the home office, and indicated that growers in this area could rest assured that everything possible would be done to protect advantages of the Southern California area.

The battle is expected to take place soon in Washington, D. C. First guns were fired last month when it was revealed that Florida orange growers had sent emissaries to the capital.

The Florida group, it was said, wants to prevent the present system of advertising California oranges, which, Florida growers contend, sometimes openly claims that California oranges are the best in the country or the world, and therefore better than Florida oranges.

A check with the home office of the California growers in Los Angeles revealed today it was adequately equipped to cope with the entire situation and would shortly lay its facts and figures before the Federal Trades commission.

RED CROSS GROUP IN MEETING HERE

Executive committee of the Orange chapter American Red Cross met yesterday morning in the Chamber of Commerce building. A. W. Swayze, vice chairman of the chapter, presided over the meeting.

Plans were made for the annual meeting of the Orange chapter, to be held January 26 at 7:30 in the recreation lounge of the Orange fire hall. A. K. Mr. Schafer will also officially open the first aid station in Irvine park at 3 p. m. before the meeting. Dr. Thomas B. # Police News

City police were hunting for two bicycles, stolen from the high school grounds yesterday. One of the bicycles, belonging to Glenn Layton, son of Councilman Ernest H. Layton, 1253 West Fifth, was a "Speedwell," red in color with nickel trim, valued at $10. The other, an "American Indian," green with white and red trim, valued at $5, belongs to Don Wiedman, 706 West Third.

Thieves last night stole radiator cap with ornamental duck, and gasoline tank cap with ornamental greyhound, from a car parked in front of 509 West Fifth, Floyd Curl, Route 2, Box 209, Santa Ana, owner, reported to city police. The two caps were valued at $5.

Joseph O'Neil, 43, plumber, and Edward Livingston, 38, oil field broker, transients, were arrested at Fourth and French streets last night by Officers Chet Gross and W. B. Moreland, and charged with vagrancy. They were jailed.

Pat Woodward, 1423 West Third, reported to city police last night about 10 o'clock, that a thief was using a piece of hose and a gallon can to steal gasoline from Noel Woodward's car, parked in front of the house. Officers L. C. Shodgrass and L. C. Rogers rushed to the scene but the thief had been frightened away by neighbors, they were informed. The hose and can were abandoned by the thief.

Detective Sergeant Hunter Leach yesterday afternoon had an unusual assignment: He was asked to investigate a man reported to be "stealing garbage" from a local market headquarters. The man, apparently seeking "something good to eat," was gone when Leach arrived. The complaint was entered because the man had been scattering the discarded food about the place, it was reported.

Lupe Lemon, 19, of 209 East Ash street, Fullerton, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff James Workman yesterday afternoon on a bench warrant issued from Temescal township, Riverside county, charging Lemon is wanted there on a drunk driving charge.

Two Long Beach boys, which Lee Strickland, 1045 West Second, Santa Ana, reported to city police, he had picked up last night while returning home, and had let out of his car in Garden Grove, were picked up a second time, a little while later, by Deputy Sheriffs Walt Dungan and Ezra Stanley. They were placed in juvenile home here, charged with running away from home. Each carried a pack on his back. The boys were 12 and 13 years old. They were located by the officers on Ocean avenue and Berrydale avenue.

Cross work.

The chapter is following up work on their roll call, with 823 memberships enrolled. The Orange quota is $50, and the chapter expects to reach the quota by the annual meeting.

WIND AND RAIN SAVES CITRUS CROP IN NIGHT

Easterly winds and, in some sections slight rains, saved Orange county's citrus industry from sweeping losses last night when the temperature dropped to a new low mark.

With a slight snow fall recorded in Olive temperature dropped as low as 35 degrees. This lowest reading was recorded at Tustin with the next lowest reading, 35 1-2 degrees, being recorded in the East Whittier and La Habra district.

According to Agricultural Commissioner Dixon Tubbs, if the easterly wind, which started last night and in the Placentia-Anaheim district and reached Santa Ana today, continues, the citrus industry will be safe for tonight.

FRANCE FEARS GIGANTIC LOSS IN POPULATION

PARIS, (UP)—France today looks forward with fear as a declining birth rate seems likely to fall still lower during the next few decades, while at the same time the possibilities of war are rising. There is a popular French saying that sums the situation in their eyes: "A country with a falling population attracts the invader."

Moreover, the fear is more directly centered in discussions pointing to Germany as French vital statisticians announce figures showing that Germany's birth rate had fallen more sharply than France's before the ascendancy of the Nazis, but since then has begun to soar. Today Germany counts roughly a population of 60,000,000 compared to France's 40,000,000.

Depression Darkens Picture

Since the depression hit France the excess of births over deaths have registered the lowest in recent history. If the present trend continues, experts announce, France will be reduced to a population of only 29,000,000 in 1955. Moreover, every Frenchman feels sure that his country will face a war before that date, and he knows that the population will go down even more sharply then.

When some problem arises in France an association always is created to remedy it. Births are no exception. A few weeks ago the National League Against Depopulation began a campaign to try to stimulate Frenchmen by pointing out their duty and by asking the government and employers to remedy economic causes for a declining birth rate.

"A nation without babies is a nation condemned to death," the league proclaimed. If things go on as they are today, in 50 years we will have lost half of our population and France will be finished as a nation in the modern world."

Crepe for Remedy

It is clear that the French are on the defensive in tackling this problem of population. They know that the roots of the problem go back to the war, but they do not know how to remedy it. One thing is clear, the war broke up the traditional French family life, forcing millions of wives and unmarried women into the factories and government posts, and naturally cut down at once the possibilities of motherhood.

Since then other hundreds of thousands of women have been forced out of the home to supplement the constantly falling wages of their husbands and menfolk. The mothers of France refuse to rear large families any more. The depression has made a bad situation worse, and the danger of war has made it a national calamity.

In principle the French always have accepted the idea that workers with large families should receive additional pay according to the size of the family. Heads of families holding government posts today are paid $20 a year for the first child, $45 for the second, $92 for the third, $115 for the fourth and so on.

Industry Not in Step

What annoys the League Against Depopulation and many of the French political parties is the fact that in business and industry family allowances are three or four times less and in many cases give nothing for the first and second children in a family. In an economy where the producers are all consumers, prosperity naturally will run into a blind alley, they say, and announce that compulsory family allowances in all industry form one of the requisites of recovery.

Leon Blum, prime minister, once said: "The birth of a baby in a poor or modest family should no longer remain a piece of bad luck, which condemns the whole family to more poverty, and bad health. We agree that women's work should not be a necessity and that the wages of any worker should be enough to take care of the whole family."

But devaluation, rising prices, continued business stagnation and the imminence of an European conflict do not give much hope that Blum or anyone else will be able to solve this problem soon.

JESUIT, 80, GOES INTO FAR LANDS

SAN FRANCISCO, (UP)—Father Jon Svenson, past 80, one of the oldest members of the Order of Jesuits—and famous story writer and teller, has departed on another leg of his journey of life that has carried him to every part of the world and delighted millions of readers. This time, his field of travel and story telling will include Japan, India, China and Egypt.

Father Svenson believes that his talent for story telling came to him inevitably and that he has served the religious order as faithfully as if he had devoted his life to routine duties of the brotherhood.

He can remember when stories were told him by old Icelandic sea captains, for he is of the stock of Eric the Red and Olaf. He can trace his Norseman ancestry back a thousand years, and among his forebears are Queen Astrid and Djupudga, who were Icelandic royalty 800 years ago and the ancestors of King Olaf the Wise.

But the first things that he remembers are the old Norse tales told him and his little brother Manni. These tales ran something like this: "If you play a flute out at sea, you will see mermaids, and fishes will follow."

As a consequence he and his little brother Manni obtained a punt and set out in the Arctic seas to see mermaids and fishes. In reality, what they really saw was a fog so thick that they couldn't see the Arctic storm that swept their little craft with immense breakers. But when they were nearly famished and frozen a French warship saw them and picked them up.

In the early 70's a French nobleman invited "Nonni" to attend the Catholic university of Avignon. There he eventually dropped the Lutheran religion in which he had been reared, became a Catholic, and finally took the orders of the Jesuit brotherhood.

But nothing could stifle the spirit of the Norseman and the Norse story teller. He has now written 14 books.

Tales told in his books are true.

Lookout Tower In Forest Isolated

ELY, Minn. (UP)—What probably is the most isolated lookout tower in Northern Minnesota has been completed on the Kawishiwi ranger district in the Superior national forest.

The tower is accessible only after crossing nine lakes and nine portages by canoe—or hydroplane.

It is called Kekokabie tower after the lake near which it is located. Buried deep in the heart of the Wilderness area, it has no telephone communications with the outside world. It will be operated by radio, the tower man sending messages to the ranger station at Ely. Structural steel for the 100 foot tower was hauled into the site last winter over frozen lakes and the concrete and lumber was flown in later by hydroplane.

Huge Army Bomber Takes to Air in New Trials

The Army's 16-ton "flying fortress" roars into the air at Seattle, Wash., for the first flight since Dec. 7, when it nosed over during a landing. The huge machine, powered by four 100-horsepower motors, performed perfectly, said Major John D. Corkille, chief Army test pilot, who announced the plane would soon be flown to Wright Field, Ohio.

ORANGE HOME
STILL DECKED
IN YULE GLORY

BY MARAH ADAMS

Christmas may be over in Orange county homes in general, the glittering ornaments and tinsel packed away for another year. Christmas trees may lay brown and dry on a thousand trash heaps, but in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Fiene, North Grand street, Orange, elaborate Yuletide decorations are in place two months of each year as they have been for the past 27 years.

Dame Nature will be decorating the grey branches of the early peach trees with delicate pink blossoms before the last of the Christmas decorations in the Fiene home are taken down. Put in place the first of December in the large living room and connecting music room, decorations which include small buildings, many trees and lights are left until the first of February to delight many visitors—this year more than 300—before the rooms are dismantled.

No ordinary decorations are these planned by Mr. and Mrs. Fiene, street lights banked with snow, shine through the windows at night and across one side of the music room is a large scene of the city of Bethlehem. All the figures of the shepherds and kings as well as that of the mother and child represented in the scene of the nativity, were fashioned by Mrs. Fiene from small 10-cent dolls which have been supplied with whiskers, made taller or truly beautiful.

Lucky Thirteen Visit Aqueduct

The 13 girls selected to represent the communities in the Metropolitan Water District on the district float entered in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade, January 1, were taken recently for a visit to one of the Metropolitan Aqueduct tunnels. Chosen for their charm the girls portrayed the romance of "The Fountain of Youth" on a float symbolizing the achievement of district workers who are now building the giant Colorado River Aqueduct.

child is laid was made from a match box 27 years ago. The background for the scene is painted in much the same way stage scenery is painted. Many tiny woolly lambs—the kind you can't find anymore—stand near the manger. Soft bits of cotton form the clouds in the blue overhanging sky where 25 or 30 miniature figures of angels seem to float among the stars.

A small church about two feet high and about the same length with steeple and bell has lovely stained glass windows and the interior is electrically lighted. Through the door may be seen the altar with its candles and Bible. The pews were made from match boxes. Fiene spent an entire day making the pipe organ for the church. Pipes are made of writing paper rolled over a pencil. Pedals were made from corrugated paper.

Another building, a music studio, holds tiny figures playing instruments which were picked up in many places. A jar in the nativity scene came from Jerusalem. Even the kitchen of the home joins in the holiday celebration for it is here hundreds of delicious cookies are baked yearly in the form of Christmas trees and that of Santa Claus.

It is in the breakfast room that six happy birds join the family in celebrating not only Christmas but each season as it comes along.

The birds are two yellow canaries who only sing when jazz or swing time music is heard on the radio and four little linnets who have lived with the canaries in a ceiling-high cage for four years and who care only for classical numbers. The linnets were found in a nest blown down in the yard.

The Fienes welcome visitors to see the decorations and a number of Sunday school classes of the county, the latest from Garden Grove, come in groups with their teachers. As soon as Christmas is over—on February 1 for Mr. and Mrs. Fiene—they begin to plan Easter decorations for the home which this year falls on an early date, March 27.

J. C. ENGINEERS
START WORK ON
ANNUAL SHOW

Plans were in an early formative stage for the sixth annual Engineer's show as members of the Santa Ana Junior college chapter of the American Association of Engineers selected Josh Brady show chairman at a meeting held this week.

The show is an annual event of the college organization. This year it will be held at the high school auditorium, Friday, March 12.

The club has one of the largest memberships it has ever had, and it is aimed to make this sixth annual performance the best ever produced. In these shows, the future engineers display many experiments in the field of chemistry, physics and electricity.

This year high school seniors of all Orange county are to be the special guests of the club. The public is also cordially invited.

Plans for the Southern California American Association of Engineers convention at which the local chapter will be host, April 16, were discussed at the meeting. Nominations of officers for the second semester were also made.

URBINE GETS CHAMPION BEEF

The people of Santa Ana are going to receive an extraordinary opportunity to serve delicious cuts of Grand Champion steer beef for their Sunday dinner according to E. R. Urbine, proprietor of the meat market bearing his name located in the Grand Central market.

"This Grand Champion beef, which we will have on sale Friday and Saturday, is part of a carload of Angus steers which won the grand prize at the Eleventh Annual Great Western Livestock Show held at Kansas City recently," Urbine said.

"The Cudahy Packing company purchased this carload and paid the 1935 record price of $28 per hundred pounds, live weight. But in the interest of the meat industry Cudahy's have allowed certain of their accounts to purchase this choice steer beef at a figure which permits us to offer it to our customers at very reasonable prices," Urbine said.

VENICE TO SHOW
TINTORETTO ART

VENICE (UP)—An exposition this spring of nearly 200 paintings by Jacopo Robusti, the Venetian master more commonly called Tintoretto, is being planned by the city of Venice.

The success of the exhibition in 1935 of about 300 works by Titian, which was inaugurated by King Victor and which was visited by thousands of art lovers from all parts of the world, has induced the city to plan a show for the glorification of another great master.

The exposition, under the plan, will include the majority of Tintoretto's canvases existing in the churches, public museums and private galleries of Italy.

Most of Canvases in Venice There are 18 Tintoretto's in Florence, 11 in Rome, 5 in Milan, 4 in Bologna, 4 in Verona and 3 in

EXPERT SAYS POOR DANCER
"MAY BE LEADING WITH CHIN"

TULSA, Okla., (UP)—If you can't dance, maybe it's because you don't hold your chin right.

Such is the revolutionary opinion of Miss Almee Whitman, Y. W. C. A. dancing instructor.

It's all a matter of posture and balance, Miss Whitman says. If you hold your chin wrong, your posture needs correction.

She teaches men popular steps, but other than a few pointers she leaves them to shift for themselves. Each man should be allowed to develop his own particular style of "delivery," she asserts. Her only admonition in that direction is that the male pay particular attention to his partner's toes while "developing."

"I can tell immediately what is wrong with a girl's dancing," Miss Whitman declares. Some girls are

"naturals." They are the ones who are born with a sense of rhythm. Others acquire it—the "it" being the peculiar ability of knowing when to sway, dip or vibrate in time with a drum, a piano or a completely whipped bull fiddle.

Age doesn't have much to do with dancing ability, the instructor relates. Nor does it have anything to do with desire to dance. In her beginners' class are women past the 60 mark marching their rhythm-consciousness with junior high school students.

One of the beginners is a postman. He says he wants to dance because he doesn't get enough exercise.

Men along in years appear to have similar reasons for wanting to learn dancing. Their wives, friends or children dance, so they develop interest.

QUIET GARY TAILOR INHERITS
CHINA RICHES AND NIGHT CLUB

GARY, Ind. (UP)—For honors in a fairy tale competition, Cinderella and her benevolent godmother have close rivals in Jacob L. Schwartz and his aunt, Blimie Ginsberg.

The fairybook lady won some fancy raiment, a couple of glass slippers and a pumpkin chariot. To Schwartz went $2,500 worth of jewelry, a collection of perforated Oriental coins and — a Chinese nightclub.

The quiet-mannered, 48-year-old tailor who operates a tiny shop in the Steel City, finds it hard to explain why the fortune—in the form of his aunt's will filed for probate in Gary Superior Court—should reach out thousands of miles across the Pacific and land him such an odd assortment of riches. Miss Ginsberg, a resident of Peking (now Peiping), China, for many years, is survived by several other immediate relatives.

Writes for 43 Years "The last time I saw my aunt was when I was 5 years old," Schwartz said. "I corresponded with her since then for nearly 43 years."

Miss Ginsberg, who died in 1935, operated her bizarre nightclub in the great walled city of Peking, capital of China. But the lure of the Orient at present has little attraction for the quiet Gary tailor.

Schwartz prefers the whirr of the sewing machine and the hiss of the steam press to sing-song music and high-pitched conversation.

"What are you going to do with the property?" he was asked.

"Keep it."

"Are you going to China to operate the nightclub?"

May Visit Club Later

"No, I have a friend in Tientsin, Oren Walker, an attorney, who will manage the club for me. However, I may go over there on a little trip next year when everything is settled."

Under the terms of the will Schwartz also receives diamonds valued at approximately $2,500 and a quantity of large Chinese dollars which have little value.

Gary's new Oriental nightclub proprietor is married and has two children, Gladys, 8, and Kenneth, 13. He has wielded a needle in his little shop for 16 years.

RAILROADS BELIEVE ITS TIME TO MAKE TIMETABLE READABLE

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—One of America's historical institutions may be streamlined and brought up to date, according to Gilbert Farrar, expert type counselor who has been making a tour of the United States. It is the well known but often unfathomable railway timetable.

Farrar says that on his tour he studied the reaction of the traveling public to the old-time timetable and considered leading railway authorities on it.

All were convinced that modernization of the timetable, both in typograph and format is desirable. "The complexity and lack of definition of the present-day timetable," said Farrar, "is a detriment rather than an encouragement to travel. There have been no important improvements in this kind of printing since the time of McKinley. If anything, the present timetable is less eligible and less understandable."

Farrar was told by railway officials, he said, that since passenger rate reductions went into effect, many persons who are in a position to travel either have forgotten how to read time tables or never learned how. It is his opinion that unless noticeable simplification is achieved many potential travelers will be lost to railroads.

Elimination of American museums and collectors to part, even though temporarily, with their treasures.

Public museums and private collectors outside Italy possess about 125 paintings, of which 32 are in Vienna, 32 in Madrid, 19 in London, 8 in Amsterdam, 7 in Berlin, 7 in Dresden and 5 in Paris. Others are in the United States, Belgium, Scandinavia and Russia.

It is the organizers' hope to get the majority of the canvases owned abroad as a loan for the occasion, as was done for the Titian exposition.

No effort, it seems, will be made to obtain loans from the United States, owing partly to the disin-

TALKIES RID MOVIES OF MUMBLING

BERKELEY, Cal. (UP)—The new course at the University of California in the history of moving pictures has developed at least one important fact, namely, that the "talkies" have eradicated the human pest known as the "sub-title reader."

The sub-title reader, Dr. Anthony F. Blanks, who is conducting the course, explains to his classes, was the individual during the days of the silent-films who insisted on reading the sub-titles aloud. He could be distinguished, Dr. Blanks avers by three general characteristics:

First—That he was disturbing all of the rest of the audience.

Second—By the fact that he usually mispronounced all the small words.

Third—By the fact that he usually skipped all the big words.

Blanks thinks that what developed the sub-title pest of the silent days was the big millinery of the same epoch. The sub-title reader, in an effort to overcome the handicap imposed by big hats, forgot that he was in a public audience and unconsciously read aloud. The strain to read the subtitle before it disappeared and before he could make the necessary maneuvers to circumvent the millinery in front of him took his mind off other aspects of the situation.

"By most movie fans," Dr. Blanks continued, "they were regarded as being just a degree lower in the social scale than the peanut cruncher and the lady with a crying baby."

Dr. Blanks says he is convinced it was purely the talkies that eradicated the sub-title pest for the reason that while he is delivering his lectures and showing silent films at the same time, no one talks except himself.

Giant Elephant
Bone Is Found

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—(UP)—Proof that a giant species of prehistoric elephant plodded over New Mexico terrain many thousands of years ago is believed indicated by discovery of a humerus, or upper bone of the forelimb of a proboscidean in a gravel pit 22 feet below the earth's surface.

The bone, nearly 3 feet long and with a ball-and-socket circumference of 27 inches, crumbled when exposed to air.

The proboscidean was a mammoth animal which stood 14 feet high at the shoulder and lived in the pleistocene, or ice age.

Newly-Married Couple Arrive This Morning

Bridegroom and bride of Tuesday, January 5, Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Wimbush arrived in Santa Ana this morning from Portland, Ore., and are guests for the present in the home of Mr. Wimbush's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nelson Wimbush, 1108 South Van Ness avenue.

The marriage of Miss Marvel Twiss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Twiss of Portland, and the Santa Ana man took place in Episcopal church of the northern city, immediately following the ceremony, the young couple left for the bridegroom's home city, stopping over in San Francisco for a three-day stay.

Mr. Wimbush left here late in December for Portland, arriving there a few days in advance of the ceremony. He and his charming bride first met while they were attending University of Oregon at Eugene. The new Mrs. Wimbush is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, and her husband is affiliated with Sigma Chi fraternity.

The many Santa Ana friends of the Wimbush family are anticipating the opportunity to meet the bride. She and the bridegroom will be feted at several post-nuptial affairs, with a family party over the weekend scheduled as one of the first courtesies for the young couple.

Mr. Wimbush is manager of a service station on the 101 highway beyond Orange.

Commodore Hartley To Give Address For Veterans' Groups

Veterans' organizations of the community will be afforded the opportunity to hear Commodore Herbert Hartley, formerly in command of the S. S. Leviathan, at an open meeting of Santa Ana Legion auxiliary Thursday evening, January 21 at 8 o'clock in Veterans hall.

Plans for the special program were made last night at a meeting of the auxiliary in the hall, with President Mrs. Robert Sandon in charge. The event will mark Commodore Hartley's second appearance in Santa Ana this month, his first program having been given for Women's club of Santa Ana Tuesday afternoon.

First definite plans for the annual poppy day campaign were made last night when the auxiliary allotted a sum of money to be used for prizes in a poster contest to be conducted in junior high and high schools of the community. In the absence of Mrs. Eugene Robinson, general chairman of poppy day, Miss Louise Tubbs is in charge of arrangements. It was announced The Saturday before Memorial day will bring the annual sale of veteran-made poppies.

Members made plans to attend a meeting of Legion auxiliary council next Tuesday in La Habra. The organization made plans to serve dinners for two groups who will meet in Veterans' hall in the near future. The first event, January 13, will be a meeting of Orange Empire association; the second affair, January 16 will be a dinner for Southern California Fire Chiefs' club.

Last night's meeting was followed by the serving of hot chocolate and sandwiches by Mrs. E. F. Mathews and Mrs. R. H. McCalla.

MY GIFT

By Helen Welshimer

I CAN NOT give you frankincense,
And myrrh and gold, my dear;
I may not always keep your heart
Close latched from passing fear.

BUT from my love for you I'll mold
A shining suit of mail
To shield you in life's tournaments,
And should it ever fail,

THEN I'll make love an antidote
To heal the frightened bruise;
Oh, I'll make love a poem, a clown,
Or anything you choose!

A FEATHER for your hat, a song,
A lantern for the night;
A ladder up the mountain side,
A star, high, trembling, bright.

Oh hold it as a precious thing,
Fair-patterned for a King,
The Wise Men's gold is not enough
To buy the love I bring!

Original Work Is Read By Pegasus Members At Club Meeting

With "Children keep us at play all our lives" (Calvert), as their program theme, members of Pegasus club met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Charles Brisco, 421 East Bishop street, for a dessert course and club session. Mrs. Rose Havelly was in charge of the program, and read several reminiscences of sayings of her grand-children.

J. C. Clubwomen Stage Gay Skating Party

Skating party and midnight lunch last night combined to form a festive informal party for members of Las Meninas, women's service club at Junior college, and their escorts.

Gathering at 8 o'clock in the local skating rink, 80 students and their two advisors began the gay hours of skating which proved so entertaining to participants. Music broadcast over the floor provided a pleasant accompaniment to the skating.

Climax to the gala evening came when the group motored to El Sombreno for midnight supper. Small tables were arranged for the group in the patio of the inn. A Spanish atmosphere provided by paintings, dining fireplace, and rustic architecture formed a pleasing background for the supper.

Miss Velma Koehel, member of Las Meninas, and Miss Helena Bailey, president, were students in charge of the event, an annual affair of the club.

Southland Visitors Are Guests At Dinner

Southland visitors from three different cities were assembled for a little dinner party at which Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Hindley entertained last night at Daniger's.

In the honored group were Todd Henderson of Chicago, Ill.; his sister, Mrs. Roy Steyer and Mrs. Jessie Steyer of Oklahoma City, Okla.; Hugh Cosgrove of Seattle, Wash. Completing the party were Horace Bolton, with whom Mr. Cosgrove has been visiting; and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Hindley. The group enjoyed dinner following an afternoon's motor trip through Orange county with Mrs. F. H. Cloyes, who had planned a drive to such scenic spots as Lemon Heights. Mrs. Cloyes was with the group of relatives and close friends for luncheon in the Hindley home, 308 South Birch street.

TOUR OF MEXICO

Among the 47 Southland residents who plan to take the Orange county Chamber of Commerce tour of Mexico City are Mrs. Sam Nau, 206 South Birch street; Mrs. L. E. Lounsbury, of Balboa Beach, and Mrs. Virginia Draper, of Pasadena. They made their arrangements for the trip through Julia Ann Hyde of Commercial National bank's travel bureau.

The tour will begin Sunday evening at 8 o'clock when a special train will leave Los Angeles, going to Mexico City by way of Nogales and Mazatlan. Members of the party will make trips to various historical and scenic points near Mexico City, returning home January 28.

Mrs. Nau's anticipations of the stay in Mexico City are especially bright as friends made by her daughter, Miss Mary Henrietta Nau, while the latter studied at the University of Mexico City, are planning several things for her entertainment.

SUNFLOWER FLOURISHES

Reminiscences of former pleasant associations in their native Kansas, were recalled by a score of former Sunflower state folk now residing in the Southland, when they met for luncheon Wednesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hoag in La Canada.

Mrs. Robert G. Tutthill and her daughter, Miss Mary Tutthill, 2035 Victoria drive, represented Santa Ana in the group assembled from Pasadena, Long Beach, Glendale and other Southland communities, to compliment Mrs. Hoag's sister, Mrs. Nelson Petro, of Topeka.

Mr. and Mrs. Petro are enjoying a winter visit in the Southland, and Mr. Petro and Mr. Hoag joined the guests for the luncheon hour. In the afternoon Mr. Hoag obligingly screened motion pictures of some of the world travels he and Mrs. Hoag have enjoyed since his retirement from the vice presidency of the J. C. Penney company.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Albright, 718 South Sycamore street, here returned from a six weeks' visit in Berkeley with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Albright and their little daughter, Barbara Jean.

The family group enjoyed driving over the new San Francisco-Oakland bridge when they went to meet their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra W. Albright of Toronto, Can., who were en route home from Japan. The Canadian residents spent several days in Santa Ana last spring when they were on their way to the Orient.

Mrs. Harold Albright's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Brown of Berkeley entertained the family group at a holiday party. Another happy gathering was in the home

Surprise Event Comes In Farewell To Local Business Man

W. H. Woodward, who left today for a two months' business trip to New York City, was honored at a dinner which took place last night at Daniger's.

Potential Industry

Fragile-looking eggshell porcelain teapots made from Tennessee Valley clay are among the first all-American products of their kind, made possible through the research of Robert E. Gould at Norris Dam.

"MADE IN AMERICA" CHINA IS POSSIBILITY OF FUTURE

By NEA Service

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Within the shadow of Norris Dam a small group of men have transformed gray Tennessee Valley clay into light, white, egg-shell porcelain dinnerware that is acclaimed as fine as any in the world—the first time that porcelain has been made from clay found in this country.

Up to now, either the clay or the metal was out of the picture. Metal finished product has been imported from Europe or Asia. And capturing the achievement of opening America's clay deposits to industry, for the first time the firing or baking has been done by electricity.

According to S. T. Henry of Spruce Pine, N. C., who conceived the idea for the experiment, their success will have far-reaching consequences.

It means, for instance, that high grade dinnerware will become available in this country at a low price—possibly low enough so it can be sold in the lowest-priced stores.

Major industry in the United States, now you have only to look at the back of your plates, cups and saucers to see that they come from Japan, England, France, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Hereafter, in times of war, we no longer will have to depend vitally essential to make spark plugs and electric insulation needed in military transport.

The fact that North Carolina, Georgia and Alabama have rich deposits of kaolin is not news. Up to now small quantities of it have been used in a mixture with imported kaolin. The real news is that porcelain can be made from the native clay. Also that, in such a refined state, it can take the place of imported kaolin.

Mr. Henry and TVA administrators picked one Robert E. Gould, an American ceramics engineer, to head the experimental laboratories. Mr. Gould, then chief engineer of a ceramics plant in Poland, picked his staff and set to work. After months of experimenting with a washing and settling process that had not been used before, they found ways and means to remove all impurities from the native kaolin.

Next was tackled job No. 2, firing by electricity. Up to now electricity had been used in a small way in firing decorations on porcelain ware, but this called for a temperature of only around 900 degrees Fahrenheit, whereas the TVA researchers required a temperature of 2500 or more degrees for fusing the kaolin, felspar and quartz into porcelain.

Ebell Travelers Told Of World Cruise By Section Member

When Ebell First Travel section members meet in February they will continue an unusually interesting travel tour which they began this week at their January meeting. In a party "personally conducted" by Mrs. George C. Perkins. For instead of seeking a speaker from without their section membership, the Travelers may hear all about foreign lands from a member of their own family, so to speak.

This week's session, the first of the new year, was with Mrs. George S. Smith as hostess, and prior to receiving the group in her home, 916 French street, she entertained at luncheon in Daniger's. Covers were placed for Mrs. Smith as hostess, Mrs. H. C. Daves, here from Los Angeles for the day, Mrs. George C. Perkins, Mrs. W. M. Smart, Mrs. E. B. Smith, Mrs. L. J. Carden and Mrs. M. F. Heathman. Two members, Mrs. J. L. Dwyer and Mrs. Lynn Shaw, were absent.

In presenting her travel talk later in the afternoon, Mrs. Perkins drew on her vivid recollections of experiences when she and Mr. Perkins enjoyed a "round the world" cruise. She has consented to present a series of these talks, so for the introductory one she began with their embarkation at New York city, told details of the ocean crossing, stops at such important points as Madeira and Gibraltar, and devoted the remainder of this special session to northern Africa and southern Europe.

Mrs. Perkins is herself to be luncheon hostess at the February meeting when her travel talk will be resumed after luncheon in her home, 2415 Riverside drive.

Guest Quartet Shares Club's Contract Play

Such diversified affairs as moving operations, conflicting engagements and even disheartening attacks of influenza kept four members of the Wednesday Luncheon club from sharing the pleasant hospitality dispensed Wednesday by Mrs. James Harding in her home, 1427 Bush street.

Mrs. Parke S. Roper, Mrs. Roy G. Tutthill, Mrs. A. G. Flagge and Mrs. George Briggs were the four absentees, but Mrs. Harding turned to other friends for their kindly assistance as substitutes, and entertained in place of the absent quartet, Mrs. Wade Warner, Mrs. Ray Chandler, Mrs. Marguerite D. Borgmeyer and Mrs. Mark Lacy.

They shared the pleasant luncheon interval and the subsequent contract play with Mrs. Earl Morrow, Mrs. Irwin F. Landis, Mrs. Philip Hatfield, Mrs. Roy Hall, Mrs. Charles W. Davis, Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth, Mrs. A. J. Crickshank and the hostess, Mrs. Harding.

There was a touch of spring-time's charm in the arrangement of flowers used by Mrs. Harding to center her luncheon table. Ranunculus blossoms, fragile and delicate in appearance, were combined with plumes of delphinium. Place cards in harmonious design later served to group the guests into forenoon for contract play during the afternoon.

DESERT DEFIES BIG LAKE MEAD TO CHANGE IT

BY JOHN CAHLAN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BOULDER CITY, Nev. (UP)—Lake Mead, world's largest man-made water body, has not exerted any influence on the climate of America's driest desert, where it stretches for 100 miles behind Boulder Dam. And it never will, say government experts.

"Lake Mead was not expected to influence the weather," declared John C. Page, acting reclamation commissioner. "It has not done so and it will not."

Investigation was started last summer when unauthorized statements circulated that perceptible changes in the weather and climate were noticeable as Lake Mead grew behind the dam barrier across the Colorado River.

The reclamation bureau calculated in advance the rate of evaporation from Lake Mead which could be expected when the lake formed in the desert. These calculations indicated that insufficient moisture would be taken into the air to alter weather conditions noticeably.

Evaporation Checked Daily
Tests are underway at the lake to check precisely the actual evaporation daily and records so far indicate the advance calculations are correct.

Meantime the government has collected information from nearby residents, airplane pilots who fly over Lake Mead daily, and from meteorologists of the U. S. weather bureau at Phoenix, Ariz., Reno, and Salt Lake City, the vast area surrounding Lake Mead.

J. C. Alter, of the Salt Lake City weather bureau, in a report to the reclamation commissioner, summed up his evidence with this observation:

"By comparison, the water in a pitcher at a speaker's stand is about as effective in air-conditioning an auditorium as Lake Mead is in modifying the climate."

Seventeen pilots and co-pilots of the Western Air Express, which sends planes daily over Boulder Dam and Lake Mead, were questioned. Fifteen said they had noticed no change in atmospheric conditions. Two said they believed the time elapsed since Lake Mead began to fill in February, 1935, was too short to make any change evident.

No Change Noted by Residents
Residents near Boulder Dam and in Boulder City, Las Vegas and Kingman, Ariz., reported they have not noticed any climatic differences.

George V. Sager, associate meteorologist at Reno, said, "The creation of Lake Mead has had no appreciable effect on the climate of Southern Nevada."

Summer rains over Southern Nevada are generally thunderstorms. Masses of moist air from the Gulf of Mexico move inland over Mexico, thence into Arizona and New Mexico during the summer, commonly resulting in intense local storms of cloudburst proportions, the bureau of reclamation explains.

"When the area of Lake Mead is compared with the thousands of square miles over which such showers are distributed, and when the fact that the vapor of evaporation from the lake surface is taken into account, it is at once apparent that no important effect on local rainfall is likely to be found."

Inland Sea Created
In 1905 and 1906 the Colorado River broke its banks and overflowed into the low-lying Imperial Valley of California, forming Salton Sea in what previously had been a desert basin. Before the river was returned to its channel Salton Sea covered 440 square miles. Sager points out that it has been conclusively shown that the creation of Salton Sea had no effect on the rainfall of the surrounding area and none on the temperature and humidity of areas more than a quarter of a mile from its shores. Yet the surface of Salton Sea was more than twice that of Lake Mead.

"Construction of Boulder Dam and the creation of Lake Mead has exerted and will continue to exert a great influence on the Southwest," Acting Commissioner

EVERY WOMAN FACES THIS QUESTION

How do I look to other people? So many women risk their beauty by neglect of constipation. It often causes loss of pep, sallow skins, dull eyes, poor complexions.

Yet common constipation can be ended so easily. Just eat two table-spoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or fruits every day, three times daily in severe cases. This delicious ready-to-eat cereal supplies the "bulk" needed to exercise the system—and vitamin B to help tone up the intestinal tract.

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs more than twice its weight in water, gently sponging out the intestines. It never causes the artificial action of pills and drugs, that often prove ineffective.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, you see, is a food—not a medicine. It relieves common constipation the way Nature intended—so its results are safe. Buy it at your grocer's. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Page said.
"The character of the Colorado River below Boulder Dam has been changed entirely from an erratic stream to a perennial stream on which irrigators can rely confidently. The contributions made by Lake Mead through control of floods and through increasing the flow of the river during summer droughts have added to the security of tens of thousands of persons.

"No magical influence on the climate of the Southwest has been claimed for this project and none is necessary to complete its justifications."

Hungry Eagle Loses Bout To Weathercock

DESIO, Italy (UP)—The belief that eagles are gifted with piercing eyes, and hence with an exceptionally strong eyesight, seems to be a legend.

Here's a story which tells why. A royal eagle frightened by the rifle shots of Alpine game hunters, flew down the valley in search of a more secure refuge.

Passing over the village of Pains, the bird sighted what it thought was a chicken flying above the houses. Scenting a good prey, the eagle swooped down with full wings and swift spirals, and began to peck furiously at the supposed prey. The one-sided fight lasted several minutes, and ended with the royal bird getting groggy, and with barely enough strength left to seek refuge in a bell-tower hit-uated close to the scene of the fight.

The eagle had mistaken for a live chicken the metal weathercock which for centuries has been revolving on top of the church spire.
The disappointed bird came to still worse grief shortly thereafter when a hunter, who had witnessed the unequal fight from the street, rushed with a shot gun to a roof across the belfry, and from there killed the eagle.

The bird, which had a 78-inch wing span, is an exhibit in the Desio's museum.
Desio is the birthplace of Pope Pius XI.

CONTINUOUS PROGRAMS AT WALKER'S NOW

Inauguration of a new matinee policy at Walker's new theater, Third and Bush streets, was announced today by Manager Vic Walker.

Starting tomorrow matinees will be scheduled at 1 p. m. on Saturdays and Sundays and at 2 p. m. the other days of the week, with continuous shows.

This means that students or shoppers may come at 2 o'clock, see the entire program and get home in time for dinner. The matinee price of 20 cents will be in effect daily until 4 p. m.

The cream of the movie "crop" is shown at Walker's, with the outstanding productions of the leading studios of the nation being billed for this popular price house.

The current bill presents Edna Ferber's drama of love and the rise to power of a lumber baron, "Come and Get It," with Edward Arnold, Frances Farmer and Joel McCrea, and a hilarious musical comedy, "Pigskin Parade," with a host of screen favorites, including Stuart Erwin, Arline Judge, Betty Grable, Dixie Dunbar, Patsy Kelly, Johnny Downs, Jack Haley and the Yacht Club Boys.

THRILLING STORY ON STATE SCREEN

A thrilling yarn by Peter B. Kyne of the adventures that befell a movie cowboy when he got a job on a ranch is the current feature attraction at the State theater, starring Charles Starrett and Iris Meredith. It is titled "The Cowboy Star."

The program also presents "Fighting Fishers," a Walter Catlett comedy; "Toytown Hall," a color cartoon; a news reel and a chapter of "Custer's Last Stand."

The kiddie club will hold its regular session with free ice cream for all members in attendance at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

General HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A remarkable decision was handed down last week by a New York court. An association of dress manufacturers had made a labor union contract with an industrial union of the John Lewis type. The contract fixed wages, hours and working conditions for all employees in that industry—over 70 per cent of which is located in New York. It also provided that the factories of the various employers who were members of the association should not be moved out of that part of the metropolitan area that can be reached by a five-cent fare.

Now, only costs a few thousand dollars to equip a dress factory, and the factory itself may be a loft or almost any old building. One of the many hundreds of small manufacturers in the association, thinking it saw a chance in a much cheaper nearby labor market to ship its cheaper product of much lower wages back to the city—thus stealing a march on both its workers and its competitors—suddenly moved, bag and baggage, to a little town near Scranton, Pennsylvania.

The industrial labor union sued in equity—since there was no adequate remedy in law—and the court set an unexpected precedent by ordering the manufacturer to move his plant back to New York, pay all wages lost to his workers through his removal—or, go to jail and stay there until he decides that it is better to obey the court.

The decision may be reserved. It may be had law. But the incident is of startling importance because it illustrates so vividly what the President meant when he said recently that the states alone cannot regulate the problems of shorter hours and higher wages. New York, both by progressive legislation and under the pressure of labor unionism, has greatly improved wages and working conditions in the dress industry where the word "sweatshop" got its start. They are far above the standards in some surrounding states in the so-called "metropolitan area." The same is true of several other New York industries.

What has happened? Exactly what is threatened here. The sweatshop operator simply moves across a state line, sets up shop on standards as low as he can contract for, and ships his cheaper, sweated product back into the area of higher labor standards to take the market and wipe out his higher-standard competitors by a cheaper price.

What can New York do? She cannot, under the Constitution refuse to receive the goods. There are only two things she can do—either lose her industries, or lower her standards and sweat her own labor.

What can the New York manu-

HOMER CANFIELD'S COLUMN

The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here—

By HOMER CANFIELD

Hollywood, Jan. 8.—HAL KEMP'S MUSIC IMPRESSED dieters last week. Of course it wasn't any Kostelanetz rhapsody. But then it wasn't meant to be. As dance combinations go, it's swell music. (KNX, 8:30.)

The change in bands proved a break for Kay Thompson. It should be her happiest Happy New Year. Under the Kostelanetz baton, her role was definitely that of second fiddle. When Kemp gave the go-ahead last Friday, Kay became a star. Her delightful sense of humor, smooth style and arrangements, which gave listeners credit for having intelligence, scored. It was her show. If you get the chance, buy Kay Thompson stock. It's going skyhigh.

But why did Chesterfield make the switch? A good many have asked that question. As I tried to explain here several weeks ago, the only logical answer would be that the sponsor was cutting down expenses. But why?

The reason became evident last night with the return of "Town Crier" Woolcott. The same sponsor is paying the bill. Which means that by replacing Kostelanetz' symphony with a small dance group, Chesterfield is saving enough money to hire Woolcott for a two-weekly series.

Which should please dieters all the way around. For after all we still have Kosty's music on Wednesdays.

WHILE EVERYTHING SEEMED to go smoothly for the cigarette makers, the Ford dealers were having a time of it. They, too, were starting a new series. And not doing so well for themselves. At least that's the way your Uncle Canfield heard it.

Ex-Chandler's (his real name is Chandler Goldswaithe) "Universal Rhythm" seemed to be anything but that. His band is advertised as having forty-three pieces. Which should mean unusually fine music if they're given the right notes to play.

It'll be interesting to catch tonight's airing to note what, if any, changes are made. The following publicity blurb from the advertising agency would lead one to expect nothing less than perfection: "Chandler requires such a large complement of musicians because of the intricacy of the arrangements he will offer. These orchestras, prepared specifically for the show by a permanent staff of six arrangers, afford each number a glorified type of presentation and allow for rich symphonic efforts that it would be impossible to achieve with the average dance combination." (KECA, 9.)

From all indications, Al Pearce & Gang made the grade Tuesday night. Arlene Francis still remains the ringleader of this California outfit.

Incidentally, Fred Waring's in town. Talking turkey with movie makers, I understand.

factor do? Either go out of business, follow his sweatshop competitor to the lower wage area, or stay where he is and chisel on New York standards, which latter, in such a highly organized labor area as New York, is practically impossible.

It is a real problem because the Supreme Court says that labor in manufacture is a local matter excluded from federal power and wholly within the jurisdiction of the several states. As this case indicates, that is practically to say that the state with the lowest labor standards tends to set the labor standard for the whole country. In other words, while a state may attract industries and capital away from other states by lowering working conditions, no state that wants to raise those conditions can do so without risking the loss of its industries.

American industry is a national and not local affair. It ought not to have its pace set by the standards of its most backward local labor conditions.

That is happening now. This case is only one of many symptoms, the southward migration of the cotton textile industry ruining many New

GOOD GARDENING

By Mrs. H. Cardosa Sloan, Corona Del Mar
Being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange county gardens.

A MEMORY
A reader of our garden column recently sent me a page of the "New York Times" of Christmas Sunday in which not a column or two but a whole page is devoted to "The Garden World." The page is centered by a pictured bay window filled with plants, such as a window garden as dwellers in cold climates may cherish while their outdoor gardens are buried in snow. The plants are in the plants familiar in such window gardens in my young days, but are of more modern type, various philodendrons, an alocasia, rex begonias, a saintpaulia, several pots of trailing ivy.

So it was not the plants, but the bay window itself which stabbed sharply into my memory. An old-fashioned bay window—we had four such in the home of my childhood. Through this pictured window is a suggestion of frosty, wintry out-of-doors, and the memory that comes to me is of our sitting room bay window on a winter's night just after supper.

My father sits in the big rocking chair in the window of the still unlighted room. And I sit on his knee, my head against his shoulder. My little sister, her fair curls against his breast, has the other knee. Within his encircling arms we relax in blissful content while he tells the old tales over and over again—Sindbad the Sailor, the Sleeping Beauty, All Baba and the Forty Thieves. A fan of yellow lamplight floods in from the dining room where Mama and Aunt Jane are clearing the supper table. Outside, the snow is falling. How pretty it is gleaming under the bare light which swings at the corner, throwing shadowed designs of bare elm boughs across the white stretch of snowy lawn. Now and then a homing pedestrian comes into sight, stiffens himself against the wind and rounds the corner, or his head bent against the slanting snowfall, plods on down the Pine Street side of our lawn. So cold and snowy outside—so warm and cozy within—"What did he do then, Papa?" Why, then he hid in one of the empty oil jars. Or was it the forty thieves who hid in the jars? The story flows on and on, and under the electric are the snow eddies and swirls in the winter wind.

"Between the dark and the daylight, When the night is beginning to lower," came that pause in the days occupation which was known as "the children's hour," in the Longfellow family. In our home it was between supper and the lighting of the sitting room lamps, and precious are its memories which will linger in my heart forever. "Yes, forever and a day, 'Till the walls shall crumble to ruin And moulder in dust away."

CHRISTMAS PLANTS
Another of the "Times" articles is entitled "Holiday Beauty Prolonged" and reminds us that all over the land people are being told how to take care of their Christmas gift plants. We recently devoted a little of our weekly space to care of house plants, so today will take time only for what is becoming an annual message as to the care of three blossoming plants most favored for Christmas giving, the cyclamen, the saintpaulia, and the begonias sometimes known as the "Christmas begonias," of which "Lady Mack" is most used.

Great care must be taken in watering these plants, as excessive moisture around the crown is almost certain to result in rotting the plant. The best way is to set the plant in a pan of slightly warmed water until the surface soil shows moisture, then allow to drain well. Unless the room is excessively dry it will not be necessary to water again for several days. If you do water from the top, use a long spout if possible, and in any case avoid wetting leaves or crown. A little liquid fertilizer will prolong the blooming season.

Sometimes a saintpaulia is kept in continuous bloom for several years. If yours shows signs of going down, give less light, less water and no fertilizer for a couple months, allowing the plant to rest, then start it into growth again.

If you want to try keeping your cyclamen for another season, gradually withhold water after the plant is through blooming, but do not let the bulb dry out entirely. Lay the pot on its side in some darkened spot and throw a little water on it every few weeks. When it begins to show signs of new life, shake off old dirt, repot in a fresh mixture of good soil well mixed with a little sand, leafmold and bone meal. Bring gradually to full light and while the plant is growing give frequent applications of liquid manure. Treatment for the "Lady Mack" begonia is about the same.

These plants, when bloomed for Christmas, have been subject to more or less forcing, and it is a question whether or not they are worth the effort to grow them for the second year, yet many do so successfully.

The cyclamen bulbs may be planted in out-of-door beds in partially shaded positions, with peat and leafmold in the soil, and sometimes do very nicely.

GLAZED POTS
While still on the subject of Christmas gift plants, a word about the pretty glazed pots, against which some people still hold prejudice. You need have no fear of these pots, your plant will do just as well in a glazed as in a porous pot. Plants have died in porous pots from too much or too little water, lack of food, drafts, lack of sunlight or an excess of it, or from numerous other causes. And plants have died in glazed pots for the same reasons. But none ever died because of the glazed pot. There is, however, one word of caution. A plant in a glazed pot does not require as much water as one in a porous pot.

The above refers to glazed pots with drainage holes. But, as a matter of fact, nowadays plants are often put in glazed containers which have no drainage outlet whatever. Other things being favorable and intelligent care given to the watering, these will do very well for many months.

ROSE PLANTING
Plant roses now—the sooner the better. Good drainage is essential, sunshine for half the day desirable. Almost any soil can be prepared for rose growing, by adding lime, wood ashes or humus if it is too heavy, or sufficient humus to make it retentive of moisture if it is too light. The ground should be well dug and pulverized to a depth of 18 inches. Formerly it was customary to fill in the bottom of trench or hole with rich manure, placing a layer of broken sod or soil over this before planting. Some people still follow this method. But with our changing ideas on many subjects some growers now think it is better to apply all fertilizer to the surface, and they put no fertilizer in the hole at planting time. At any rate, be sure none touches the roots of your newly planted rose bush.

Dig a good sized hole in your prepared rose bed, making a rounding mound of soil in the hole upon which to set the new bush. Taking your bare rooted and bare stemmed bush in hand, cut the stems to about 10 inches and trim the roots, taking out all pieces which are broken or bruised, and slightly trimming back the others. Make slanting cuts on both roots and stems, and have the stem cuts slant outward just above an outside eye or bud.

Set the bush upon the mound, spreading the roots gently outward and downward, and fill carefully with good topsoil. Have the swollen portion which is the union between the root stalk and your budded rose (for our roses are grown not on their own roots but upon a stronger rose root)—have this swollen joint just below the surface when planting is finished. Tamp the ground down well and give a thorough watering.

Brain Twizzlers

By Prof. J. D. Flint

While visiting an asylum one day a man entered a room in which such notables as Napoleon, Catherine the Great, Caesar, Cleopatra, and William the Conqueror were seated. Each of the inmates representing these characters took a turn making a speech. After several talks Caesar stepped up and started an oration about himself. He began—"Caesar entered on his head, his helmet on his feet, his sandals in his hand, his sword on his forehead, a crown and sat down." The visitor, thinking the whole procedure interesting, took the speeches down in shorthand but when he came to transcribing them later he had difficulty punctuating Caesar's words to make sense. Can you do it?

STORIES IN STAMPS

By J. S. Klein

"FATHER of U. S. NAVY"

IRISH-BORN John Barry was 15, in 1760, when he went to sea. It was natural for him, therefore, to lead the small, untrained naval force of the colonies, when the revolution broke out in 1776. He commanded the first naval vessel owned by the United States and made the first capture of an English ship.

In 1781, on his return from an errand to France, he encountered two British ships, and the ensuing battle was so intense that defeat seemed certain. Barry was wounded, the colors were shot down, all guns except one were disabled. But Barry refused to surrender. Manning the lone cannon, suffering from his wounds, he fought hard until the enemy ships ran up white flags.

After the war, Congress authorized construction of a new fleet, and Barry was put in command. He led this nucleus of the American navy in raids against pirates and armed vessels of France. He died, in 1803, aged 56. His portrait appears, with that of John Paul Jones, on the new one-cent Navy stamp.

Workmen called Deputy Game Warden W. W. Ireland who shot the deer, a five-pointer. It had suffered a fractured foreleg in the fall. From tracks on the battleground, it was apparent the two bucks had fought for some time. The trail led to the brink of the canyon and back, perhaps one of the deer was trying to force the other over. Perhaps they could not even see their danger in the faint light of the clouded morning sun. Perhaps their horns had become locked and one fell and pulled the other with it.

The Mixing Bowl

By Ann Meredith

A clever girl did something this Christmas that you folks who save Christmas cards, year after year, just for the fun of saving them and looking at them occasionally, might like to do, maybe?

She took each card, wrote some little message that would bring to life the time the card was sent and to whom, and sent the card back to the friend who had sent it to her, three or more years ago.

Are you sometimes at your wits' end for something filling to serve for Sunday night supper? Why not an oyster cream stew? Allow a pint of small count oysters to four people, 1-2 pint bottle of coffee cream and a quart of milk. Melt a piece of butter, and use it to curl the edges of the oysters (about 3 minutes cooking). Have the milk piping hot, add the cream, and seasonings. Just at the last moment, do the oysters and add them to the hot milk. Serve with a big bowl of thin oyster crackers, to be "dunked" and eaten along with the oysters as part of the stew.

Oysters will be found in the big Calory List. You'll be surprised to find how little they cost in terms of calories. To get this list you are asked to contribute a copy of one of your best recipes and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Tuna Fish Salad
1-2 pound can white tuna fish
1 small bottle of stuffed olives
1 cup chopped celery hearts
2 small green peppers, chopped and seeded
1 teaspoon, each salt and paprika
Juice of 1 lemon
1 envelope plain gelatine dissolved in
1-4 cup cold water
1 cup heavy mayonnaise, heavily flavored with mustard.

Set the softened gelatine over hot water to melt, cool it, then add to the mayonnaise and let stand while the rest of the salad is prepared.

Shred the pepper, celery and olives, combine with the flaked tuna, stir well with the seasonings and lemon juice. Fold into the chilled gelatine mayonnaise and mould in singles or one large mould.

Time required for setting: 4 hours in the refrigerator.

LAURA WHEELER FILET LACE GIVES CHAIR NEW GRACE

Used against dark upholstery, this stately peacock is just twice as effective, set off, as he is, in solid stitch by two varying sizes of mesh. This set of three, done in string, is so easy to crochet—if you're not in need of a chair set, use two of the larger pieces as scarf ends. Pattern 1376 contains charts and directions for making the set shown (chair back measures 13x16 inches, arm rests 6x13 inches); material requirements; an illustration of all stitches used.

RIGHT TO DO WRONG

Dr. Martin, who will speak at the Federal Forum Monday, says in his book, "Liberty", "Therefore if men are to be free to do what is right, they must necessarily be free to do wrong, and take the consequences."

He says, "Democracies try to achieve moral excellence by legislation."

He also says, "Democracies, with unlimited faith in the magic and saving power of passing laws against the things which tempt them, use their liberty to suppress and censor the liberal arts."

FIRE CONSCIOUS

Santa Anans rapidly are becoming fire conscious, it was revealed this week in the annual report submitted by Fire Chief John Luxembourger, and not only are citizens and citizens' children open for our heartiest congratulations today, but local fire fighters must be commended highly.

The 1936 fire department record is one of the cleanest records ever set in Santa Ana, and runs ahead of 1935 with a vim—yet the 1935 record was good.

Fire Marshal Elmer Gates, who prepared the annual report, credited Santa Ana children with a large share of effort which brought 1936 its fine fire record. Buildings involved in fires of 1935 were valued at $193,450, with loss of $9601; contents involved in fires of that year were valued at $183,075, with loss of $7768—total loss of $17,370. But look at the 1936 record: Buildings involved, valued at $302,850, loss, $2466; contents involved, valued at $333,475, loss, $1762! By a strange coincidence, the fire department answered exactly the same number of calls in 1935 and 1936, 192.

"Through our school children, here, residents are rapidly becoming fire conscious," Fire Marshal Gates said. "Much credit is due to these children and to our merchants and citizens of the residential areas where cooperation has been exceptional."

Members of the fire department have increased their efforts to lower the fire losses by increasing the number of talks on fire prevention at each school from one each, in 1935, to four, in 1936. Fire drills at each school are continuing as usual, four per year. As the columnist, Walter Winchell, might be prompted to say, "Orchids to Santa Ana for a fine fire prevention record!"

LABOR EXPLOITING LABOR

Invariably one hears that labor is being exploited by capital; seldom does one hear that one group of laborers is exploiting another group of laborers. The maritime strike is a concrete example.

Frank Garbutt is authority, in his column, for the statement that the maritime strikers had lost $14,400,000 in wages, out of the total cost of the strike, $420,000,000, for sixty days. He gives the figures to the loss of others than the strikers and the ship-owners as $391,680,000. The public, in other words, is losing over $25 for every dollar the workers are losing directly by the strike. This $391,000,000 that the public is losing is almost entirely coming out of the living standard of the consumers, who are mostly other workers.

So it is easy to see that the strikers are not in reality exploiting capital but they are exploiting other workers, present and past.

When special privileges in labor were first initiated and business was not so large, it was much easier to see this than it is now, when business is large. The largeness seems to confuse many conscientious, sympathetic people. It is because the average citizen does not understand that he is being exploited by other workers that he permits other workers to have protection from competition which he does not have. He does not realize that if all workers were protected from the competition of other workers, he would have lost his opportunity to advance his position in the world. He would be regimented. He would be in the caste system.

The fact that most people do not believe that labor is exploiting other labor is the reason we now have strikes and demand for wages on a non-competitive basis. The average working man is delighted when some other working man gets a wage increase, whether it is on a comparative basis with his or not. He does not realize that this increase reduces his standard of living and the standard of living of all workers who have saved for a rainy day.

Until this is understood, strikers will continue to strike and wish wages will continue to grow because the worker believes he is being benefited.

If the cost of wages is increased to the maritime strikers, it will be passed right on to the consumers and come out of the pockets of other workers, past or present.

If there is any conclusion that is not based on logic and natural laws in the above editorial, The Register columns are open for correction.

THE SHERIFF SPEAKS

Law enforcement agencies of the county, other than the sheriff, Logan Jackson, after a meeting early this week, expressed the opinion that the legality of the marble-machines and other such paraphernalia, should be tested in the courts to determine their legality. They even asked the sheriff to make arrests for the purpose of testing the legality of the machines, in court.

But the sheriff balks. He doesn't want to make arrests. He wants marble-machine owners and owners of similar machines, from whom he has taken equipment, to be the aggressor. He wants those owners to "try and get it back after I take it."

Attorney General U. S. Webb, according to the sheriff's version, wants, clearly and unmistakably removal of "these illegal machines." What Webb's motives may be in "suggesting" removal of the machines, is beside the point. He indicates, the sheriff says, that the machines are illegal. And, under the "loose" order, given by Webb, the sheriff has a right to his own interpretation.

"If the owners think that I am in illegal possession of the machines, they have the right to appeal to the courts to compel me to return them," says the sheriff. It's a conservative viewpoint.

Then the sheriff says he is "within my rights" to seize "gambling equipment." It is suggestive that he considers marble machines and such equipment, as "gambling equipment," else why such a statement in connection with his decision not to make arrests for the sake of "test" cases? The sheriff further states that he will seize equipment in cities if the local authorities do not stop the use of marble machines and such equipment.

But what we want to know is, are marble machines legal or illegal in California. How is the situation to be handled unless through some decision of some court, somewhere in the state?

WHY STOP HERE?

Men of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club this week voted unanimously to banish cynicism and intolerance from their ranks, "and to be kind and considerate to their fellow man."

What a pledge! Men who really know men, and human nature, will realize the tremendous task that the Kiwanians have adopted for themselves. Anyone who attended the meeting knows profoundly that the club members were sincere. It was one of the outstanding features of that meeting—the sincerity that was in evidence. We laud that sincerity. And we think there is no higher purpose in life. We only want to know that every member of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club will proceed without deviation from that course, and then we will try to tell the rest of the story.

The story is that mankind generally is pretty critical of his fellow man, forgetting at the same time that the other man can easily find faults—sometimes the same faults that we are so "kind" to point out.

So, we ask, that all men, and that includes all members of all service clubs and the scores of other organizations, that they, too, adopt this humanitarian objective—to be tolerant, kind and true to their fellow man.

THE PARABLE OF THE WATER TANK

Under the Clearing House, C. O. White suggests that we read the "Parable of the Water Tank" by Edward Bellamy.

It has been some little time since we read this parable so we do not remember the exact figures. As we remember it, however, the owner of the tank bought water at a price and sold it to the workers at a higher price and the tank was filled and there was no work for the workers.

The error in the supposed-to-be conclusion is that it is not actually a parable, because the water tank had a limited capacity, while the demand for things and services, made by work, is unlimited. One man could indefinitely consume all that every worker could produce.

Many people are confused by this water tank parable, and it is not a parable at all. It is a trick, for, as we stated, there is unlimited demand for work and things and the tank was limited.

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

CONSOLIDATION NO. 1

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Those two gentlemen seen walking into the White House frequently during the last three weeks disguised as the Smith brothers were well-known government officials. An observer who saw them with their whippers off recognized the one and only Mr. Harry (Trade) Hopkins of WPA and the two and only Mr. Harold (Mark) Ickes of PWA and DOI.

They have been getting down under the executive desk for extra secret conferences with the chief official students of the question, particularly those closely connected with the farm problem and farm co-ops. In fact, most of the insiders give credit for killing the plan to the farm co-op leaders. The farmers learned that the establishment of government subsidies for consumer co-ops to buy from them in bulk at sub-market prices is a totally different thing from co-operative marketing by producers.

The natural gradist establishment of co-ops, on their own initiative and money and from the bottom up, is what most of the authorities around here favor now.

That seems to end that.

The New Dealers managed to hide it, but they were deeply hurt when ex-Secretary of the Treasury Mellon gave all those fifty or sixty million dollars of art as a public charity. They called it "one of Frank Hogan's tricks." Mr. Hogan is an eminent artist in his line, which happens to be the law. Lately he has been devoting his best brushwork to the defense of Mellon against income tax prosecutions instituted by the Democrats. A decision in the case has been imminent from the board of tax appeals for some time. It hinges, as everyone knows, around Mr. Mellon's art contributions. By definitely making the gift now, Mr. Hogan thereby makes it difficult for the tax board to hold against Mellon. Also it gives him positive additional proof for an appeal to the circuit court in case the tax board accepts the democratic estimation of Mr. Mellon.

Mr. Roosevelt's annual message was delivered to the wrong address. He read it to congress, but intended it for the supreme court, a block away. Despite the error, court reports indicate it has reached the proper addressee and is being seriously considered.

Mr. Roosevelt's long lost co-operative mission to Europe will come to life shortly. A report will be made public concerning its investigation last summer into the operation of European co-ops, particularly those in Sweden and England. The report will seem to be the unanimous conclusions of the seven commissioners on the co-op question, but it will be far less than that.

The commissioners dropped their real conclusions into the White House letter box several months ago and ran. These were marked for permanent burial. They are supposed to have included a majority and minority report which cast grave doubts upon the original idea of government financing for consumers' and other co-ops.

The new unanimous report is understood to be another tribute to Mr. Roosevelt's skill in conciliation. Those who have seen it in a semi-final state, say it is a factual recitation of the European co-op situation to which no one could object. In addition, the commissioners may make public individual statements concerning phases of the subject in which they are particularly interested.

The semi-final understanding was that there would be no recommendations to congress for legislation.

CONVERSION

Many things have happened on the inside here concerning the co-operative issue since Mr. Roosevelt became interested in it shortly before the Democratic national convention.

The official inspiration for the move was originally furnished by Agriculture Secretary Wallace. He is said to have changed his mind lately. So have most of the other official students of the question, particularly those closely connected with the farm problem and farm co-ops.

In fact, most of the insiders give credit for killing the plan to the farm co-op leaders. The farmers learned that the establishment of government subsidies for consumer co-ops to buy from them in bulk at sub-market prices is a totally different thing from co-operative marketing by producers.

Mr. Roosevelt's long lost co-operative mission to Europe will come to life shortly. A report will be made public concerning its investigation last summer into the operation of European co-ops, particularly those in Sweden and England. The report will seem to be the unanimous conclusions of the seven commissioners on the co-op question, but it will be far less than that.

The commissioners dropped their real conclusions into the White House letter box several months ago and ran. These were marked for permanent burial. They are supposed to have included a majority and minority report which cast grave doubts upon the original idea of government financing for consumers' and other co-ops.

The new unanimous report is understood to be another tribute to Mr. Roosevelt's skill in conciliation. Those who have seen it in a semi-final state, say it is a factual recitation of the European co-op situation to which no one could object. In addition, the commissioners may make public individual statements concerning phases of the subject in which they are particularly interested.

The semi-final understanding was that there would be no recommendations to congress for legislation.

CONVERSION

Many things have happened on the inside here concerning the co-operative issue since Mr. Roosevelt became interested in it shortly before the Democratic national convention.

Little Benny's
Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

Pop was smoking and thinking in his private chair and ma said, I was thinking of doing you the honor of permitting you to take me to a movie tonight, Willyum, but I see by your domestic expression it would be love's labor lost to even mention such a thing.

You read me like a book, I think you're a remarkable woman, pop said, and ma said, O well, I'm just as glad of a quiet evening to get a few odd jobs off my mind. First and last most there are several skains of wool that I want to roll into balls, and with your help I'm almost reasonably sure it won't take more than half hour at the most, she said.

For Peet sake do you mean to say you expect me to sit here handcuffed by silly skains of wool for a half hour? pop said, and ma said, Now Willyum I can't possibly wind them unless somebody holds them for me, and Benny is doing his lessons. My lands what's a half an hour? she said.

It's a half a lifetime to some species of butterflies, pop said. Do you realize that a drowning man can see all the worst incidents of his passed life in 5 minutes? Then what couldn't I see with my hands strangling in skeins of yarn for 30 minutes? Do you know there are 60 seconds in every minute and 30 times 60 makes one thousand 800 seconds, every one of them excruciating under the conditions that you so blandly propose. Yee gods, you ask what's a half an hour. For Peet sake where is the movie, what is it you want to see? he said, and ma said, Don't get excited, it's only around at the Narcississ, hurry and get ready if you really feel like going, or we'll miss the cartoon.

G, Ma, what yarn is it, I haven't saw any yarn around, I said, and pop said, Hay, what is this, a fowl plot?

Now Willyum, the yarn will be delivered tomorrow, and you've got your hat on now, so the principle is the same, ma said, and pop said, It's a wimmin's world. Meaning he surrendered.

NEW SCHOOL SETUP URGED
SALEM, Ore. (UP)—Organization of schools on a statewide basis, doing away with the hundreds of separate districts and boards, would save at least $3,000,000 of the $17,000,000 it now costs to support Oregon's schools, John H. Carlin of the state tax commission estimates.

BANQUET HELD IN CAGE
MELBOURNE (UP)—In honor of the 56th anniversary in the circus business of Philip Wirth, the "Barnum of Australia," 100 leaders of Melbourne's public life dined with Wirth in a lions' cage with six of his lions present. Throughout the dinner the lions wandered around the table.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

BUSINESS AND GOVERNMENT

The relation of government to business is bound to be an issue that will run like a bright and binding thread through virtually all the legislation before the forthcoming congress.

It is important to keep in mind a few elementary considerations which may be restated here.

The circumstances of the age demand a sound and productive relationship between government and business. If this were not so, the major part of the political world would not now be searching to find the foundation for such relationship. There is more behind the worldwide experimentalism than the hysteria of the herd and the ambition of adventurers.

Both business and government must today be concerned with the welfare of the masses. If Government must be concerned with the welfare of the masses because the masses have the vote and are determined to use it to improve their economic lot, and any government that does not seek to improve their economic lot will be ruthlessly retired.

Business must be concerned with the welfare of the masses because the very efficiency of private enterprise has developed a productive capacity so vast that private enterprise must have a mass market, which means that the masses must be amply supplied with buying power.

Since both are chained to the same job, they should work out some technique through which neither will hamstring the other and each will help the other to bring its service to the masses to a high pitch of efficiency.

If either tries to rule the roost, the masses will suffer, for in this modern age we need the genius of both in cooperation.

OUR CHILDREN

BY ANGELO PATRI

THE TEACHER'S GREATEST ASSET

When I started to teach school I worked in an old building mostly of wood, and the head of the school was very particular about having fire drills. To the children these were Rapid Dismissals, and a matter of strict observance. Then, if ever, they must be alert to follow directions, be silent, keep in line. All this was impressed on them and on the teachers by a very wise and understanding school man.

One day the signal rang. Out of the building without hats or coats, and line up at accustomed places, that signal said. Out we started. When we reached the ground floor there was a class standing across the right of way. One may not speak at such a time, one may only act, so we squirmed and wiggled our way around that stationary line to the nearest exit. That delayed us.

The principal, in order to make certain of our safety in emergency had shut off one exit. We must then discover and use the nearest one and keep going. The teacher whose class stood blocking the way had found her exit cut off, and stood by it.

"Why don't you get that class out?" asked the principal.

"My usual exit is cut off."

"Why don't you use your judgment?"

"I haven't any," said she, calm as a summer day.

I've never been able to find just what she meant by that. Maybe she was so stunned she didn't know what she meant. The fact remained that she had not used good sense that day and nobody blamed the head of the school for asking her to find a field where no judgment was needed. Every other teacher and class found it possible to move along swiftly and quietly toward another exit and get out on schedule time. Only this one stood like a rock in the path.

College education, courses in education, in psychology, psychiatry, social sciences, special method, all are good and all are helpful to the teacher in classroom practice, but they are as nothing if that teacher has not good sense and sound judgment and the ability to use them.

Children are kittle kattle. They are full of surprises. The unexpected and unusual are their common forms of expression. No rules can cover the teacher's performance of her daily round. She must, after all her accomplishments, all her degrees have been recorded, use her good sense.

The school program needs interpretation. Classroom management needs wise administration. You cannot always have the south window open, nor can you always do arithmetic first thing in the morning and sing songs exactly on the stroke of ten. Room must be left in the perfect schedule for the unexpected and unusual, and only the good sense of the teacher determines what is best to do.

If I had to choose between a teacher who had good sense and no degree and one who had three degrees and no common sense, I would choose the teacher with the degree of Common Sense and praise her mightily. The children are safe in her charge.

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled, "Bedtime Troubles," in which he tells parents how to overcome irritability in children. Send for it, addressing your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, Child Psychology Department of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

IT'S OLD TURKISH CUSTOM

OLIVET, Mich. (UP)—Local residents know the answer to what is a pioloff party. Invitations from Prof. T. The dinner was prepared by Miss Sifet Nejat, Turkish student at Olivet college.
